INTRODUCTION TO THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

Nature of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is the report of the Government of Canada prepared each fiscal year by the Receiver General as required by Section 55 of the Financial Administration Act.

The report covers the fiscal year of the Government, which ends on March 31, and is prepared from data contained in the accounts of Canada and from more detailed records maintained in departments and agencies. The accounts of Canada is the centralized record of the Government's financial transactions maintained by the Receiver General in which the transactions of all departments and agencies are summarized. Each department and agency is responsible for agreeing its accounts to the control accounts of the Receiver General, and maintains detailed records of the transactions in those accounts.

The report covers the financial transactions of the Government during the year. In certain cases, parliamentary authority to undertake transactions was provided by legislation approved in earlier years.

Format of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is produced in three volumes.

Volume I presents a summary and analysis of the financial transactions of the Government. Its content is summarized as follows:

SECTION 1: summary statements of the financial transactions of the Government of Canada on both a Public Accounts and an Extended National Accounts basis;

SECTION 2: audited financial statements of the Government of Canada, prepared in accordance with Section 55 of the Financial Administration Act;

SECTION 3: observations by the Auditor General on the financial statements;

SECTION 4: review of envelopes and outlays, and Estimates and appropriations;

SECTION 5: review of budgetary revenue;

SECTION 6: review of budgetary expenditure;

SECTION 7: analysis of consolidated specified purpose accounts;

SECTION 8: analysis of loans, investments and advances;

SECTION 9: analysis of specified purpose accounts;

SECTION 10: analysis of other liabilities;

SECTION 11: analysis of foreign exchange accounts;

SECTION 12: analysis of unmatured debt; and,

SECTION 13: analysis of other information related to the financial statements.

Volume II is published in two parts. Part I presents the financial operations of the Government, segregated by ministry while Part II presents additional information and analyses.

(a) PART I

Part I is designed to reflect as closely as possible the form and content of Part II of the Main Estimates. Most tables and statements in Part I display the source and disposition of spending authorities. The content of Part I is summarized as follows:

(i) Summary Tables (Section 1)

Section 1 includes tables which provide summaries of the financial operations contained in the ministerial sections. It also includes, as appendices, the full wording of all authorities granted in current year Appropriation Acts, of all non-lapsing authorities granted in the current year by Statutes other than Appropriation Acts, and of all authorities available from previous years.

(ii) Ministerial Sections (Sections 2 to 28)

There is one section for each ministry. The programs for the departments and agencies for which a Minister is responsible to Parliament are grouped together to provide a total ministry presentation. Each ministerial section provides a statement of program objectives and activity descriptions. Each ministerial section also includes, where applicable, a uniform set of statements to present each ministry's financial operations. These statements are:

- Ministry Summary

  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of each budgetary and non-budgetary authority granted by Parliament in Appropriation Acts and other statutes.

- Programs by Activity

  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each activity under each type of expenditure (operating, capital, transfer payments and non-budgetary).

- Transfer Payments

  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each transfer payment (grant and contribution).

- Details of Amounts Credited to the Vote

  This statement displays by program the nature of revenues and receipts which increase the amounts which may be spent from appropriations having net voting authority.

- Revenue

  This statement displays by program the nature of revenue collected for each main classification of revenue.

(b) PART II

Part II presents additional information and analyses. The content of Part II is summarized as follows:

- financial statements of revolving funds (Section 1);
- financial statements of departmental corporations and other entities (Section 2);
- supplementary information required by the Financial Administration Act (Section 3);
- accounts receivable and deletions (Section 4);
- professional and special services (Section 5);
- construction and acquisition of land, buildings, works, machinery and equipment (Section 6);
- transfer payments (Section 7);
- public debt charges (Section 8);
- payments of damage claims, ex gratia payments, Federal Court awards and nugatory payments (Section 9);
- federal-provincial shared-cost programs (Section 10);
- other Government-wide information (Section 11); and,
- other miscellaneous information (Section 12).

Volume III contains an annual consolidated report on the businesses and activities of all parent Crown corporations together with a listing of all Crown corporations and other corporate interests of Canada.

INTRODUCTION

In this section, the financial transactions of the Government of Canada are set out in summary form, with comparative figures for the previous four years. The financial transactions are first presented according to the accounting policies explained in Note 1 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume, referred to as the Public Accounts presentation; the second presentation is on the National Income and Expenditure Accounts basis, extended to encompass other financial transactions affecting the Consolidated Revenue Fund. This second form of presentation is referred to as the Extended National Accounts presentation.

This section is intended to provide an overview of the Government's financial operations, both on the Public Accounts basis and on the Extended National Accounts basis. The Public Accounts presentation reflects the accounting procedures and conventions which have been adopted in providing Parliament with an accounting of the source and use of financial resources. The National Accounts transactions section of the Extended National Accounts presentation is designed primarily to facilitate economic analysis of the federal Government sector on a basis consistent with that used in measuring income and expenditure flows in the economy. The remaining sections show the relation between the traditional budget balance on the National Accounts basis and the Government's overall financial requirements, debt transactions and cash position.

Public Accounts Presentation

The "Summary Statement of Transactions" table provides aggregate data on the major categories of transactions under four main headings: budgetary, non-budgetary, foreign exchange and unmatured debt. The resulting cash position at the end of each year is also shown.

This year's Public Accounts presentation is on the new accounting basis introduced in the February 1986 Budget. Under the new accounting basis, the transactions of certain specified purpose and other accounts, namely the Exchange Fund Account, the Unemployment Insurance Account, the Western Grain Stabilization Account, the Crop Reinsurance Fund and the Oil Export Charges Revenue Sharing Account, are reported with budgetary revenue and expenditure. In addition, loans to developing countries are recorded as a budgetary expenditure, and revenue and expenditure are reported net of transactions internal to the Government.

For purposes of comparability, budgetary revenue and expenditure in this section treat Canada Post as a Crown corporation for all years. This Corporation was proclaimed on October 16, 1981.

Extended National Accounts Presentation

This section presents the Government's financial transactions on the Extended National Accounts basis. As in the Public Accounts presentation, the transactions are categorized under four main headings: the traditional National Income and Expenditure Accounts which are referred to as National Accounts transactions, loans and other transactions, foreign exchange and unmatured debt transactions. The resulting cash position at the end of each year is also shown. Starting with the line entitled "Financial requirements (excluding foreign exchange transactions)", the Extended National Accounts presentation is identical to the Public Accounts presentation.

The total for loans and other transactions will differ from the non-budgetary transactions in the Public Accounts presentation due, in part, to differences in coverage. Loans to certain agencies, such as Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, are excluded in arriving at the total of loans and other transactions on the Extended National Accounts presentation, because transactions of these agencies are included in the National Accounts transactions. Similarly, the receipts and disbursements of Government pension accounts are included in the National Accounts. As a result, they are not included in the loans and other transactions adjustment. In determining the surplus or deficit on a National Accounts basis, certain revenue items, such as corporate income tax, are reflected on an accrual, as opposed to a cash basis. The loans and other transactions category includes the adjusting entry required to convert from an accrual basis of revenue and expenditure to a cash basis.

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF TRANSACTIONS—PUBLIC ACCOUNTS PRESENTATION

Total financial requirements, excluding foreign exchange transactions, amounted to $30,262 million for the year ended March 31, 1986. The budgetary deficit of $34,404 million was partially offset by a source of $4,142 million for non-budgetary transactions. Foreign exchange transactions decreased requirements by $5,614 million. Total financial requirements were $24,648 million in 1985-86. These transactions, together with the $23,534 million increase in unmatured debt, resulted in a $1,114 million reduction in the cash balance, bringing the March 31, 1986 cash balance to $4,744 million.

Table 1.1 sets out the financial transactions of the Government for the five years 1981-82 to 1985-86 on a comparable basis.

I. Budgetary Transactions

A. Revenue

Total budgetary revenue increased $5,932 million or 8.4% to $76,823 million in 1985-86. Tax revenue increased $6,109 million while non-tax revenue decreased $177 million.

Personal income tax revenue increased $3,754 million or 12.8% compared to 8.5% in 1984-85. The growth in 1985-86 revenue was accounted for by personal income growth of 8.1% in 1985, the lowering of the federal tax reduction to $50 from $100 in 1985, the elimination of the federal tax reduction in 1986, the restriction of the indexation of personal income tax exemptions and tax brackets to the annual increase in the Consumer Price Index that exceeds 3% beginning in 1986, and the imposition of a 5% and 10% surtax on basic federal tax in excess of $5,000 and $10,000 respectively, effective July 1, 1985.

Corporate income tax collections were $9,210 million in 1985-86 or $169 million below the 1984-85 level of $9,379 million. The decline in 1985-86 collections reflects the cyclical sensitivity of corporate profits and the use of various tax credits and loss carry-over provisions.

On the energy side, 1985-86 revenue collections were $1,131 million lower at $3,348 million compared to $4,479 million in 1984-85, reflecting the elimination and phase-out of the various energy-related taxes, as stipulated under the Western Energy Accord.

Revenues from the sales tax and customs import duties increased 23.1% and 4.7%, respectively, from their 1984-85 levels. A one percentage point increase in the federal sales tax rates, effective January 1, 1986, broadening of the tax base and the elimination of special relief provisions, effective July 1, 1985, and an increase in consumer and business spending in 1985 accounted for the strong increase in sales tax revenue. The increase in customs import duties reflects a slowdown in the growth of imports in 1985. Other excise taxes increased $504 million or 59.3% to $1,354 million in 1985-86 reflecting the increase of 1 cent per cigarette in the specific excise tax on cigarettes effective May 23, 1985.

Non-tax revenue decreased by $177 million in 1985-86 from the 1984-85 level of $5,400 million, reflecting a $729 million reduction in Exchange Fund Account profits, partly offset by increases in other components of non-tax revenue.

B. Expenditure

Total budgetary expenditure in 1985-86 increased 1.8% to $111,227 million compared to increases of 13% in 1984-85 and 9.1% in 1983-84. Total program expenditure—that is, total Government spending excluding public debt charges—decreased by 1.1% or $974 million in 1985-86 to $85,786 million.

Public debt charges rose $2,986 million, or 13.3% to $25,441 million in 1985-86, reflecting the increase in unmatured debt outstanding during the year. However, interest rates were somewhat below the 1984-85 average levels and this brought about the decline in the growth rate of public debt charges from 24.2% in 1984-85.

The Social Development envelope accounts for 60.5% of total program expenditure and includes such programs as old age security, unemployment insurance benefits, established programs financing, the Canada Assistance Plan, family allowances, courts and correctional services, job creation and training, social and economic assistance to native peoples, housing, veterans benefits, and other social expenditures. In 1985-86, the envelope increased 2.5% or $1,289 million to $51,859 million mainly because old age security benefits, including guaranteed income supplements and spouses' allowances, increased 9.7% to $12,525 million. Direct job creation and training decreased $258 million and housing expenditures declined by $228 million.

The Services to Government envelope increased $635 million or 16.9% in 1985-86 because of the payment of $791 million to the uninsured depositors of the Canadian Commercial and Northland banks.

Defence envelope expenditures rose $332 million or 3.8% to $9,094 million in 1985-86. This growth reflects Canada's commitment to its NATO allies, partly offset by deferral of capital expenditures to the following fiscal year.

The Economic and Regional Development envelope as a percentage of total program expenditure declined from 16.4% in 1981-82 to 13.8% in 1985-86. In 1985-86, the envelope declined 20.4% or $3,028 million from $14,851 million to $11,823 million due to reduced outlays for the Petroleum Compensation Program, the Petroleum Incentives Program, several other energy-related programs, regional economic development grants, and certain transportation subsidies. The Petroleum Compensation Account recorded a surplus of $136 million in 1985-86 compared to the previous year's deficit of $1,247 million and petroleum incentive payments dropped $235 million from $1,735 million to $1,500 million.

The External Affairs and Aid envelope decreased 6.1% or $160 million in 1985-86 to $2,479 million. The Fiscal Arrangements envelope declined slightly by 0.7% or $44 million to $5,941 million as equalization payments amounted to $5,156 million, $239 million lower than in the previous year.

II. Non-budgetary Transactions

A. Loans, Investments and Advances

In 1985-86, loans, investments and advances were a net source of $41 million, compared to $709 million in 1984-85, for a net reduction of $668 million. This change includes a $399 million decrease in the allowance for valuation of assets.

Loans, investments and advances to Crown corporations designated as lending institutions increased by $995 million, from a source of $692 million in 1984-85, to a requirement of $303 million in 1985-86, principally as a result of an increase of $855 million over the previous year's requirements in loans to the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation, to enable the Corporation to meet its commitments to the banking system. There was also a $169 million reduction in net repayments from the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

B. Specified Purpose Accounts

Specified purpose accounts provided a net source of $5,446 million in 1985-86 compared to a net source of $5,131 million in 1984-85. This increase of $315 million was in part attributable to higher net receipts from the Canada Pension Plan Account (reflecting federal absorption of monies declined by the provinces), the superannuation accounts, and the deposit and trust accounts. The increased source for specified purpose accounts occurred despite a $536 million additional requirement for the provincial tax collection agreements account.

C. Other Transactions

Other transactions provided a net requirement of $1,345 million in 1985-86 compared to a net source of $2,683 million in 1984-85. This swing of $4,028 million reflects additional requirements for accounts payable and outstanding cheques and warrants.

III. Foreign Exchange Transactions

Foreign exchange transactions include the operations of the Exchange Fund Account, the objective of which is to assist in maintaining orderly conditions in the exchange markets. Also included in foreign exchange transactions are subscriptions and notes payable to the International Monetary Fund, together with Special Drawing Rights. Total foreign exchange transactions provided a source in Canadian dollars of $5,614 million in 1985-86 compared to $2,423 million in 1984-85.

IV. Unmatured Debt Transactions

Marketable bonds payable in Canadian currency increased in 1985-86 by $11,811 million and Canada savings bonds by $2,285 million; net sales of Treasury bills amounted to $9,650 million. In total, net unmatured debt payable in Canadian currency increased by $23,534 million in 1985-86 compared to an increase of $26,824 million in 1984-85.

V. Cash Balance at End of Year

Financial requirements, including foreign exchange transactions, amounted to $24,648 million. This was largely financed by $23,534 million in unmatured debt transactions. The excess of the increase in financial requirements over unmatured debt resulted in a decrease in the cash balance at March 31, 1986 to $4,744 million, or $1,114 million below the March 31, 1985 level of $5,858 million.

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF TRANSACTIONS—EXTENDED NATIONAL ACCOUNTS PRESENTATION

The National Income and Expenditure Accounts were developed as a basis for economic analysis of income and expenditure flows in the economy. The concepts and definitions applied to the Government sector are consistent with those applied to other sectors and follow international practices developed under the aegis of the United Nations. The economic nature of a transaction is the determining factor in its classification within the National Accounts framework. The Extended National Accounts present, in addition to the traditional National Accounts revenue, expenditure and balance shown here under the heading "National Accounts transactions", the items which account for the difference between the National Accounts budget balance and total financial requirements on the Public Accounts basis.

In 1985-86, National Accounts transactions resulted in a deficit of $28,285 million. Loans and other transactions represented a net requirement of $1,977 million. Foreign exchange transactions decreased requirements by $5,614 million and unmatured debt transactions provided a source of $23,534 million. As previously noted, foreign exchange and unmatured debt transactions are identical to those reported in the Public Accounts presentation.

I. National Accounts Transactions

A. Revenue

On a National Accounts basis, total revenue increased $7,080 million or 9.1% in 1985-86. This compares with an increase of $5,932 million or 8.4% on a Public Accounts basis. The differences in growth rates relate to conceptual differences in treatment between the National Accounts and the Public Accounts.

These conceptual differences are mainly as follows:

(a) There are differences in the treatment of energy taxes. The petroleum compensation charge is included in revenue in the National Accounts but is excluded from revenue in the Public Accounts. In 1985-86, this item amounted to $690 million or $1,601 million below the 1984-85 level of $2,291 million.

(b) Direct taxes on persons in the National Accounts include employer-employee contributions to Government pension funds. These items, which are excluded from Public Accounts budgetary revenue, amounted to $1,899 million in 1985-86, or 7.8% above the 1984-85 level of $1,762 million.

(c) Investment income on a National Accounts basis does not include profits from gold sales, which are included in the Public Accounts. However, in addition to the other "return on investments" categories of the Public Accounts, the National Accounts investment income includes interest on superannuation accounts and imputed banking services and is reduced by the amount of deficits of Government business enterprises. Interest on superannuation accounts, interest on loans and advances, imputed banking services and net profits of Government business enterprises amounted to $4,212 million, $2,220 million, $122 million and $1,968 million respectively in 1985-86, compared to $3,767 million, $2,027 million, $116 million and $1,755 million respectively in 1984-85. For these four categories together, the growth was $857 million in 1985-86 or 11.2%.

(d) In the National Accounts, corporate tax revenue is recorded on a liability basis rather than on the Public Accounts collection basis. In addition, the National Accounts amount includes the petroleum and gas revenue tax and the incremental oil revenue tax, which are included in the Public Accounts as energy taxes. In 1985-86, corporate liabilities increased $114 million or 1% compared to a decrease of $169 million or 1.8% for collections on a Public Accounts basis.

(e) In addition, the National Accounts include capital consumption allowances which are excluded from the Public Accounts. In 1985-86, capital consumption allowances amounted to $1,278 million or 9.4% above the 1984-85 level of $1,168 million.

With respect to the broad categories, direct taxes from persons on a National Accounts basis increased in 1985-86 by $6,309 million or 16.7%. As already indicated, corporate liabilities were up $114 million or 1%. Indirect taxes decreased $109 million or 0.6% reflecting the elimination and phase-out of various energy-related taxes, as stipulated under the Western Energy Accord. Investment income rose $857 million or 11.2%, reflecting higher interest earned on Government-held public funds and higher net remitted profits of Government business enterprises.

B. Expenditure

Federal Government expenditure on a National Accounts basis was $113,279 million in 1985-86, an increase of $2,191 million or 2% over 1984-85. This compares with an increase of $2,012 million or 1.8% on a Public Accounts basis. As with the revenue, these differences reflect conceptual differences which are mainly as follows:

(a) In the National Accounts, petroleum compensation payments are recorded on a gross accrual basis, while in the Public Accounts, the petroleum compensation account is recorded on a net basis with revenues credited to expenditures. On a National Accounts basis, petroleum compensation payments were $996 million in 1985-86 as compared to $3,485 million in 1984-85, representing a decrease of $2,489 million. This decrease was $1,106 million above the Public Accounts petroleum compensation account expenditure increase of $1,383 million.

(b) The National Accounts substitutes the expenditures of identified funds and agencies for Government transfers to these funds and agencies. Similarly, transfer payments to persons in the National Accounts expenditure include public service pension payments instead of the Government's contributions to the pension funds. These pension benefit payments, which are not included in Public Accounts budgetary expenditure, amounted to $2,061 million or 14% above the 1984-85 level of $1,808 million.

(c) Deficits of Government business enterprises are deducted in the National Accounts from revenue, while in the Public Accounts they are included in expenditure.

(d) The National Accounts expenditure excludes identified reserves or write-offs such as the provision for valuation which is included in budgetary expenditure.

(e) As with revenue, the National Accounts expenditure includes capital consumption allowances which are excluded from Public Accounts expenditure.

Transfer payments to other levels of government increased to $20,775 million or 7.5% in 1985-86 compared with growth rates of 9.4% in 1984-85 and 16% in 1983-84. Payments under the taxation agreements decreased slightly by $44 million, or 0.8% to $5,621 million, while federal contributions to the provinces for hospital insurance, medical care and post-secondary education increased slightly by 0.8% in 1985-86 to $8,663 million. Canada Assistance Plan payments to the provinces rose $244 million, or 6.7%, to $3,875 million in 1985-86 because of continuing high levels of unemployment. Other transfers to the provinces increased significantly mainly due to the payments for official languages education.

Transfer payments to persons increased $1,501 million or 4.9% in 1985-86 compared with rates of increase of 7.5% and 8.6% in 1984-85 and 1983-84 respectively. Old age security benefits grew 9.7% or $1,101 million to $12,405 million in 1985-86. Unemployment insurance benefits increased only $1 million to $10,064 million. Following an increase of 10.4% in 1984-85, Government pensions increased 14% to $2,061 million in 1985-86. The "other transfers to persons" category grew $64 million or 1.3% in 1985-86.

Total current goods and services grew 7.3% to $23,755 million. Defence goods and services expenditures increased $765 million, or 9%, in 1985-86, while non-defence goods and services expenditures increased $859 million, or 6.3%, to $14,500 million. Wages, salaries and supplementary labour income increased $248 million, or 2.4% to $10,698 million, while military pay and allowances increased $177 million, or 6.7%, to $2,806 million in 1985-86. Other current goods and services increased significantly by $1,107 million, or 14%, to $8,973 million in 1985-85, due primarily to military capital expenditures.

Interest on the public debt rose $2,441 million or 10.7% in 1985-86, compared to increases of 25.6% in 1984-85 and 7.4% in 1983-84. The slower growth in 1985-86 reflects a decline in interest rates.

The decrease in gross capital formation of 11.2%, or $278 million, to $2,196 million reflects the declining impact of new capital projects under the Special Recovery Capital Projects Program introduced in the April 1983 Budget. Current transfers to non-residents remained almost unchanged in 1985-86.

Subsidies decreased significantly in 1985-86 by $2,570 million or 32.9% to $5,234 million. This is explained by the drop in oil subsidies due to the phasing out of the compensation programs. The other subsidies category declined slightly by 1.9% to $4,238 million mainly because of a decline in publisher's subsidies. In addition, capital assistance declined 19.7%, or $679 million, to $2,771 million in 1985-86 as the Petroleum Incentives Program payments were down compared to 1984-85 due to the phasing out of the program as stipulated under the Western Energy Accord.

II. Loans and Other Transactions

A. Loans, Investments and Advances

Loans, investments and advances, on an Extended National Accounts basis, were a requirement of $99 million in 1985-86, a reduction of $800 million from the 1984-85 source of $701 million. This reflects principally a $995 million increased requirement for loans, investments and advances to lending institutions, principally the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation, partly offset by a reduction of $218 million in loans to other levels of government.

B. Accrual Accounts

This category reflects mainly the difference between the modified cash recording on the Public Accounts basis and the accrual recording on the National Accounts basis. The category also records several items such as cash in transit, accounts payable and accrued interest. These items are generally of a capital nature and are not included in the National Accounts revenue and expenditure categories. These accrual accounts were a requirement of $2,556 million in 1985-86 as compared to a source of $1,864 million in 1984-85.

C. Other Transactions

Other transactions provided a source of $678 million in 1985-86 compared to $808 million in 1984-85. This category includes the provincial tax collection agreements account, deposit and trust accounts, and other transactions that are not included in National Accounts revenue and expenditure.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTS AND EXTENDED NATIONAL ACCOUNTS RECONCILIATION

While the Public Accounts and the Extended National Accounts presentations result in the same total financial requirement figures, differences exist in the treatment of transactions in arriving at the budgetary surplus or deficit on a Public Accounts basis and the surplus or deficit on an Extended National Accounts basis. These differences are offset in the non-budgetary and foreign exchange components of total financial requirements.

The reconciliation of transactions according to the two systems of accounts is set out in the tables that follow. The major factors which give rise to the need for a reconciliation are listed below.

The deficits of Government business enterprises which are outside the Government accounting entity are, for Public Accounts presentation purposes, met through budgetary appropriations and thus recorded as budgetary expenditure. In the National Accounts presentation, these deficits, including the deficit of the Canada Post Corporation, are netted against Government investment income.

Revenue in the Public Accounts is recorded on a cash basis. While the major portion of National Accounts revenue is accounted for on a cash basis, certain items, such as corporate income taxes and the oil export charges, are reported on an accrual basis.

Transactions of employee pension accounts are treated as non-budgetary in the Public Accounts, although the Government's contributions to these accounts and interest payments on the Government's liability to these accounts form part of budgetary expenditure. Employer and employee contributions to these accounts, plus any related interest income, form part of Government revenue in the Extended National Accounts presentation, and pension payments form part of Government expenditure.

In the Public Accounts presentation, the purchase of capital assets such as buildings and machinery is recorded as a budgetary expenditure in the year of acquisition. Only newly produced capital assets and capital expenditures are included in National Accounts expenditure. Both Government revenue and expenditure include an allowance for the depreciation of capital assets in the National Accounts, while no such provision is made in the Public Accounts presentation.

The Extended National Accounts includes certain Government agencies which are not part of the Public Accounts. The actual financial transactions of those agencies form part of Extended National Accounts revenue and expenditure. Transfers and loans to these agencies are thus not accounted for in the Extended National Accounts presentation.

STATEMENT OF RESPONSIBILITY AND PREFACE TO THE AUDITED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

The financial statements in this section were prepared by the Government of Canada in accordance with the accounting policies set out in Note 1 to the statements, and on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year, after giving retroactive effect to the changes in accounting policies described in Note 3. These changes in accounting policies, which were introduced in the February 26, 1986 Budget of the Minister of Finance, are the result of significant research and consultation by the Government. They directly respond to previous reservations of the Auditor General on the financial statements, and are consistent with the recommendations issued to date by the Public Sector Accounting and Auditing Committee of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

The fundamental purpose of the financial statements is to provide information to Parliament and thus to the public, to facilitate an understanding and evaluation of:

—the full nature and extent of the financial affairs and resources for which the Government is responsible, distinguishing between those of the Government and those relating to Crown corporations; and —whether the financial resources were administered by the Government in accordance with the dollar limits established by the appropriate legislative authorities.

The two basic concepts underlying the Government's accounting system are found in the Constitution Acts: first, the concept of the Consolidated Revenue Fund, which emanates from the requirement that all duties and revenues received, other than those reserved to the provinces, "shall form One Consolidated Revenue Fund"; second, the concept that the balance of the Fund, after certain prior charges, "shall be appropriated by the Parliament of Canada".

Responsibility for the integrity and objectivity of the financial statements rests with the Government. The financial statements are prepared under the joint direction of the President of the Treasury Board, the Minister of Finance, and the Receiver General for Canada, in compliance with governing legislation. The financial statements are prepared on a modified cash basis of accounting. Where there are departures from cash accounting, the information included in these financial statements is based on the Government's best estimates and judgement, with due consideration given to materiality. Financial information, contained elsewhere in this volume, is consistent with that in the financial statements, unless otherwise indicated.

To fulfill its accounting and reporting responsibilities, the Government maintains systems of financial management and internal control which give due consideration to costs, benefits and risks, and which are designed to provide reasonable assurance that transactions are properly authorized, are executed in accordance with prescribed regulations, are authorized by Parliament, and are properly recorded so as to maintain accountability of public money and safeguard the assets and properties of Canada under Government administration. The Receiver General for Canada maintains the accounts of Canada, a centralized record of the Government's financial transactions, and obtains additional information as required, from departments, agencies and Crown corporations, to meet accounting and reporting requirements.

The Auditor General of Canada provides an independent opinion on the financial statements prepared by the Government. The duties of the Auditor General in that respect are set out in Section 6 of the Auditor General Act, S.C. 1976-77, C.34, which states in part that the Auditor General "shall express his opinion as to whether they (the financial statements) present fairly information in accordance with stated accounting policies of the federal government and on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year together with any reservations he may have".

Annually, the financial statements are tabled in Parliament as part of the Public Accounts, and are referred to the Standing Committee on Public Accounts, which reports to Parliament on the results of its examination together with any recommendations it may have with respect to the financial statements and accompanying audit report.

The financial statements consist of five statements and accompanying notes. The first statement is the Statement of Transactions, which shows how the financial requirements were met, and the effect of the transactions on the Consolidated Revenue Fund. The financial transactions are classified into the following categories:

- The first category, budgetary, consists of all the transactions with outside parties which enter into the calculation of the annual deficit or surplus of the Government, that is, the receipts from tax revenue, non-tax revenue, together with the expenditures authorized by Parliament.
- The second category, non-budgetary, consists of transactions in loans, investments and advances, in liabilities for the administration of certain public money received or collected for special purposes, and in other liabilities. These transactions account for the change in the financial claims and obligations of the Government.
- The third category, foreign exchange, reflects transactions in international reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account (the principal objective of which is to aid in the control and protection of the external value of the Canadian dollar) together with an accounting of the net position of the Government with respect to the International Monetary Fund. Foreign exchange transactions include unmatured debt payable in foreign currencies.
- The fourth category, unmatured debt, represents the extent to which financial requirements have been met through the increase in unmatured debt, that is, the net change in amounts owing for marketable bonds, Canada savings bonds, Treasury bills, and certain notes and loans. Unmatured debt transactions exclude unmatured debt payable in foreign currencies.

The second statement is the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, which gives a more detailed accounting of the budgetary transactions summarized in the Statement of Transactions.

The third statement is the Statement of Accumulated Deficit which shows the changes in the accumulated deficit for the last two years.

The fourth statement is the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. This statement differs in some ways from the conventional balance sheet of the private sector. Fixed assets, having been accounted for as expenditures, are reported at the nominal value of $1, and revenues not yet received, such as uncollected taxes, are not recorded as assets. It should be noted, therefore, that the difference between net recorded assets and total liabilities is simply the aggregate of annual budgetary deficits and surpluses determined in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government; this difference should not be taken as the Government's net worth.

The fifth statement is the Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities, which summarizes by ministry, the use of parliamentary appropriations for budgetary expenditure and for loans, investments and advances. Total budgetary expenditure on this statement differs from total expenditure on the Statement of Transactions and the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure. The reasons for the differences are set out in Note 13 to the financial statements.

Other sections in this volume, together with Volumes II and III of the Public Accounts, are designed to provide more detailed information supporting the financial statements.

Notes to the Financial Statements of the Government of Canada

1. Significant Accounting Policies

The accounting policies of the Government of Canada are based on concepts embodied in the Constitution Acts, and in the Financial Administration Act and other legislation.

i. Government of Canada as an accounting entity

For purposes of maintaining the accounts of Canada and preparing the Public Accounts, the Government of Canada is defined as all the departments named in Schedule A of the Financial Administration Act; any division or branch of the Public Service, including a commission appointed under the Inquiries Act, designated by the Governor in Council as a department for purposes of the Financial Administration Act; the staffs of the Senate, the House of Commons, and the Library of Parliament; and, any corporation named in Schedule B of the Financial Administration Act.

In accordance with the above definition, the corporations listed in Parts I and II of Schedule C of the Financial Administration Act, and those Crown corporations that are not subject to Divisions I to IV of Part XII of the Financial Administration Act, are excluded from the Government of Canada as an accounting entity; therefore, their financial statements are not consolidated with those of the Government. However, the borrowings of those corporations which are agents of the Crown are recorded as a liability of the Government net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by these corporations. The financial statements of Crown corporations are presented in Volume III of the Public Accounts.

In addition, certain accounts and funds have financial statements which are not consolidated with those of the Government, but appear separately in Volumes I and II (Part II). These accounts and funds include the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts and other specified purpose accounts.

ii. Classification of financial transactions

The financial transactions of the Government, as recorded in the accounts of Canada and reported in the Public Accounts, are classified into budgetary, non-budgetary, foreign exchange and unmatured debt transactions.

In general terms, budgetary transactions enter into the calculation of the annual deficit or surplus and are reported, after elimination of transactions internal to the Government, on the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure. All other transactions lead to the acquisition or disposal of financial claims or to the creation or discharge of financial obligations, and are disclosed on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

For purposes of reporting, the Public Accounts uses the classification in force at the end of the year to which the report refers and amounts for the previous year are reclassified retroactively to conform to the current year's accounting policies and presentation.

iii. Budgetary revenue

Budgetary revenue consists of all tax and non-tax receipts which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government, and includes revenue internal to the Government.

The Government generally reports revenue in the year in which it is received, with refunds of revenue allocated to the year in which they are actually paid.

Revenue is reported after deducting refunds paid, and excludes amounts receivable, taxes collected on behalf of provinces and territories, and amounts credited to the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts, other specified purpose accounts, and other liability accounts.

On the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, revenue is reported both gross and net, after elimination of revenue internal to the Government. The difference between the two is revenue from outside parties credited to appropriations.

iv. Budgetary expenditure

Budgetary expenditure consists of all charges to budgetary appropriations which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government. In addition, budgetary expenditure may also include charges related to the provision for valuation of loans, investments and advances, allowance for borrowings of agent Crown corporations, and accounts payable and other allowances related to statutory items and certain annual appropriations. Such charges include those for work performed, goods received, services rendered, and transfer payments made, during the year and in the supplementary period including accounts payable at year end, and, expenditure internal to the Government.

Expenditure excludes amounts charged to the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts, other specified purpose accounts, and other liability accounts.

On the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, expenditure is reported both gross and net, after elimination of expenditure internal to the Government. The difference between the two is revenue from outside parties credited to appropriations.

v. Assets

Assets are defined as the financial claims acquired by the Government on outside organizations and individuals as a result of events and transactions recorded as at the closing date.

However, as a result of the Government's accounting policies described above, certain financial claims are not reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The most important of these are accounts receivable for tax and non-tax revenue.

vi. Liabilities

Liabilities are defined as the financial obligations of the Government to outside organizations and individuals as a result of events and transactions recorded as at the closing date.

However, as a result of the Government's accounting policies described above, and in accordance with enabling legislation, actuarial liabilities arising from the indexing to the cost of living, of superannuate pensions and annuities, are not reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. In addition, refunds payable for tax revenue are not reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

vii. Fixed assets

The fixed assets of the Government, which include land, engineering structures and works (such as canals, harbours and roads), buildings, and machinery and equipment, are charged to budgetary expenditure at the time of acquisition or construction. Their existence, however, is acknowledged on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities by reporting them at the nominal value of $1.

viii. Valuation of assets and liabilities

ASSETS

Assets are recorded at cost and are subject to annual valuation to reflect reductions from the recorded value to the estimated realizable value. In the case of loans to sovereign states, the recorded value is the estimated realizable value unless a sovereign state has formally repudiated its debts. In addition, the allowance for valuation reflects reductions from the recorded value of loans (and subscriptions to international organizations that make similar loans) with significant concessionary terms.

The Government's gold reserves are included in the International reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account and are recorded and valued at 35 Special Drawing Rights per fine ounce.

LIABILITIES

Liabilities are recorded in the amounts ultimately payable and liabilities for the superannuation accounts, with the exception of indexing, and the Government Annuities Account, are valued on an actuarial basis.

ix. Translation of foreign currency transactions

Foreign currency transactions are translated and recorded in Canadian currency equivalents at the exchange rates prevailing at the transaction dates.

Assets and liabilities resulting from foreign currency transactions are, in turn, reported at year-end closing rates of exchange; net gains are credited to revenue, while net losses are charged to expenditure.

2. Authority for Transactions

Taxes can be raised and moneys can be borrowed only with the authority of Parliament. All receipts of money by departments and agencies must be deposited into the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF). All disbursements from the CRF for spending or for loans, investments and advances must be authorized by Parliament.

i. Authority for spending on operations

Most Government spending is under authorities that do not impose an annual limit on the amount that may be spent. Spending is authorized by reference to statutory formulae or criteria and the authorities usually continue from year to year until changed or rescinded by an act of Parliament. Other spending is under authorities that establish a dollar limit on the amount that may be spent. Usually, the balances of such authorities unspent at the end of a year lapse. Some authorities continue from year to year and some authorize the spending, within a program, of defined categories of revenue generated by the program.

ii. Authority for loans, investments and advances

These authorities limit the amount of loans, investments or advances that may be made. Unused authority may lapse at the end of a year or may continue from year to year. Non-lapsing authorities often limit only the total of loans that may be outstanding at any one time; thus principal repaid may be reloaned.

iii. Borrowing authority

The Government can borrow only as authorized by acts of Parliament. Borrowing authority acts provide authority for the net amount of new security issues less redemptions during a fiscal year. The authorities lapse at the end of the year except for amounts specifically carried forward to the next fiscal year. Parliament has also provided a continuing authority to the Government under Section 39 of the Financial Administration Act to borrow, for periods not exceeding six months, such amounts as are deemed necessary to meet lawfully authorized disbursements.

Crown corporations (corporations wholly owned by the Crown) that are agents of Her Majesty also may borrow only as authorized by acts of Parliament. Such acts usually place a ceiling on the amount of borrowing that can be outstanding at any one time. Non-agent Crown corporations can borrow without specific parliamentary authority. Non-agent borrowings are sometimes guaranteed by the Government with the authority of Parliament.

3. Changes in Accounting Policies

In 1986, changes have been made in the accounting policies for valuation of assets and the accounting entity. Loans with significant concessionary terms are now fully allowed for and certain specified purpose and other accounts are now consolidated in the accounting entity.

These changes have been authorized by the President of the Treasury Board and the Minister of Finance under Section 54(2)(b) of the Financial Administration Act. Such changes are applied retroactively, with restatement of the previous year's deficit and accumulated deficit, for consistency.

The effect of the changes made in 1986, on the accumulated deficit at the beginning of the year and on the deficit for the year, is as follows:

i. Effect of changes on the accumulated deficit at the beginning of the year

4. Contingent Liabilities of the Government of Canada

A contingent liability is a potential liability which may become an actual liability when one or more future events occur or fail to occur. The contingent liabilities of the Government consist of explicit guarantees and potential losses arising from pending and threatened litigation relating to claims and assessments in respect of breach of contract, damages to persons and property, and like items.

The contingent liabilities of the Government as at March 31, 1986 amounted to $8,876 million and are summarized in the following table:

	(in millions of dollars)
	1986[1]	1985
i) Explicit guarantees by the Government
Borrowings by other than Crown corporations	3,347	2,866
Insurance programs of the Government	1,456	1,468
Other explicit guarantees	223	150
ii) Pending and threatened litigation[2]	3,850	3,724
	8,876	8,208

[1] Details can be found in Section 13 of this volume.
[2] Includes $2.9 billion ($2.9 billion in 1985) related to the administration of native statutory and treaty obligations by the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. This amount represents plaintiffs' claims in 50 (42 in 1985) litigation cases. There are another 75 (64 in 1985) cases and settlements of Native Land claims currently under negotiation, for which amounts are not stated in the claims, and it is not possible to determine the amounts that may be ultimately payable.

5. Consolidation of Crown Corporations

In accordance with the accounting policy stated in Note 1(i), the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures reported in the separate financial statements of Crown corporations named in Schedule C of the Financial Administration Act (FAA), and of Crown corporations not subject to Divisions I to IV of FAA Part XII, are not consolidated in the Government's financial statements. As a consequence, only the financial transactions between the Government and Crown corporations, are recorded in the accounts of Canada.

The following table summarizes total Government assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures on the existing unconsolidated basis, and provides a comparison with what these totals would be if the separate financial statements of all Crown corporations were fully consolidated with the financial statements of the Government. The consolidated totals include assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures of Crown corporations resulting from transactions with parties other than the Government. The effects of all transactions between the corporations and the Government and between the corporations themselves have been eliminated from the totals on consolidation.

The consolidated information has been prepared using the Government's modified cash basis of accounting, under which non-financial assets such as land, buildings and equipment are included in expenditure when acquired rather than reported as assets. Accordingly, non-financial corporate assets of $25,572 million ($26,714 million in 1985) have been included in the consolidated accumulated deficit rather than shown as assets.

For corporations with financial year ends other than March 31, unaudited information is included in the table.

[1] Details can be found in Section 8 of this volume.

6. Insurance Programs

Certain Crown corporations, all of which are agents of Her Majesty, operate insurance programs. In the event that such corporations do not have sufficient funds to meet their obligations, the Government will provide the required financing through appropriations, either budgetary or non-budgetary. The Government is of the opinion that no allowance need be established in the accounts of Canada for these insurance programs.

In the case of the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation, as described in Note 16 (ii), the Government has provided the required financing through non-budgetary appropriations.

In the case of the Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF), the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation estimates that the deficit calculated on an actuarial basis as at March 31, 1986, was $472 million after forgiveness of current and prior year advances from the Government of $556 million. While the MIF is designed to be self-sufficient over the long run, it has experienced cash deficiencies. Since August 1984, the Government has provided interest-free advances to the MIF, through budgetary appropriations.

The following table summarizes information regarding such insurance programs. The information has not been audited because the corporations have financial year ends other than March 31, 1986.

7. International Development Assistance—Loans and Subscriptions

i. Loans to developing countries

Included in loans to National governments of $4,529 million ($4,387 million in 1985) are loans to developing countries of $3,258 million ($3,080 million in 1985). These loans are part of Canada's international development assistance program and are either interest-free or bear interest at rates that were more favourable than those prevailing in Canada at the time the assistance was provided. The balances outstanding at March 31, grouped by term, are:

Term	Grace period before repayment commences	Interest rate	(in millions of dollars) 1986	1985

(1) Rescheduled loans.

These loans, by their terms, confer financial benefits on the recipients and have been fully provided for in the Allowance for valuation. Details can be found in Section 8 of this volume.

ii. Subscriptions and loans to international organizations

Included in Loans, investments and advances—International organizations of $4,294 million ($3,727 million in 1985) are subscriptions to the capital of the International Development Association and loans to other international financial institutions of $3,592 million ($3,086 million in 1985) which are also part of Canada's development assistance program. These institutions make loans to developing countries on terms similar to those described in sub-section i. Subscriptions to international organizations do not provide a return on investment but are repayable on termination of the organization or on withdrawal therefrom. Details can be found in Section 8 of this volume.

Loans, investments and advances—International organizations are presented net after deduction of notes payable of $1,543 million ($1,196 million in 1985), including $1,460 million ($1,129 million in 1985) of notes payable to the aforementioned Association and institutions. The notes are non-interest bearing, are non-negotiable, but are payable on demand, although they are normally encashed over periods of up to seven years, according to the financial requirements of the institutions.

Included in the Allowance for valuation is an amount of $2,132 million ($1,957 million in 1985) equal to the net position of the Government vis-à-vis these institutions.

8. Gold

Included in International reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account of $3,459 million ($4,211 million in 1985) are Canada's gold holdings of 20.106 million fine ounces with a recorded value of $1,118 million (20.137 million fine ounces with a recorded value of $953 million in 1985).

Gold is valued at the Canadian dollar equivalent of 35 Special Drawing Rights (SDRs) per fine ounce, which approximates its cost in foreign currency terms. At March 31, 1986, the Canadian dollar equivalent of 35 SDRs was $55.61 per fine ounce ($47.31 per fine ounce in 1985). The SDR is a unit of account used by the International Monetary Fund and is valued in terms of a "basket" of five major currencies.

Alternative bases of valuation could be used to value gold. On a market value basis ($480.16 per fine ounce in 1986, $448.97 in 1985), the recorded value would have been $9,654 million ($9,041 million in 1985). On the basis of estimated average cost in Canadian dollars at historical rates of exchange ($36.91 per fine ounce in both 1986 and 1985), the recorded value would have been $742 million ($743 million in 1985). Further details can be found in the financial statements of the Exchange Fund Account, included in Section 11 of this volume.

9. Superannuation Accounts

The Government provides pensions for its employees, principally members of the Public Service, the Canadian Forces, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP). Basic pensions are provided for these employees under authority of the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act and the RCMP Superannuation Act, respectively. The basic pensions are indexed to the cost of living under authority of the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act.

The Public Service Superannuation Act also covers the employees of certain Crown corporations. Employees of these participating Crown corporations make contributions on the same basis as Government employees, and the corporations contribute an equal amount.

The superannuation accounts shown on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities include liabilities for basic pensions and for indexing. Liabilities for basic pensions are determined on an actuarial basis and liabilities for indexing are not. The Government has estimated that if the liabilities for all superannuation accounts were determined on an actuarial basis, the reported liabilities and accumulated deficit would increase by $4.5 billion as at March 31, 1986 ($4.7 billion as at March 31, 1985).

This estimate incorporates, initially, the effects of current high rates of interest on the notional investments of the Accounts and other current economic conditions. These economic assumptions are blended gradually into long term actuarial assumptions which, from 1994, are assumed to be an interest rate on new investments of 6%, wage increases of 5% and an inflation rate of 3.5%.

10. Canada Pension Plan

Under existing legislation, benefits and costs incurred in the administration of the Canada Pension Plan are financed from contributions from employees, employers and self-employed persons, and from interest from the investment of contributions not immediately needed for benefits and costs. Although the Canada Pension Plan was established under federal legislation, its administration is under the joint control of the Government and the provinces. Any province or group of provinces having ⅓ of the population of Canada can veto any amendment to the Canada Pension Plan that affects the level of contributions or benefits. The Government's authority to pay benefits under the Plan is limited to the balance in the Canada Pension Plan Account which was $31,715 million at March 31, 1986. Therefore, in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government, the revenues and expenditures of the Plan have not been reported with those of the Government.

In 1986, revenues of the Canada Pension Plan Account were $7.6 billion ($6.8 billion in 1985) and expenditures were $5 billion ($4.3 billion in 1985). The balance of the Canada Pension Plan Account is $31.7 billion at March 31, 1986 ($29.1 billion at March 31, 1985). Funds in excess of estimated current operating requirements ($29.9 billion at March 31, 1986; $27.6 billion at March 31, 1985) are available for investments in securities of the provinces and of the Government, on the basis of contributions from the jurisdiction to total contributions to the Account.

Contributions to the Canada Pension Plan Account are not established on a basis that provides for the full actuarial costs of benefits. If the Plan were financed on an actuarial basis, the Chief Actuary of the Department of Insurance estimates that the contribution rate would have to be increased from 3.6% to 7.9% and that an additional amount of $231 billion would have been required at December 31, 1985, to pay future benefits of all contributors and pensioners in the Plan at that time. The actuarial assumptions used in making this estimate include an interest rate of 6.5%, an inflation rate of 3.5% and an annual increase in average earnings of 5%.

During the year, agreement was struck on new financing arrangements for the Canada Pension Plan, and federal legislation was passed in June, 1986. A long term funding objective of approximately two years of benefits has been set. This objective will be achieved by establishing a 25 year schedule of contribution rates. The first 5 years require an annual .2 percentage points shared increase to the current combined employer-employee contribution rate of 3.6% of contributory earnings. Contribution rates for the 20 subsequent years involve shared increases of .15 percentage points and are subject to quinquennial federal-provincial reviews. Contribution increases will begin in 1987, subject to provincial ratification. The financial statements of the Account are reproduced in Section 9 of this volume.

11. Maturity of Government Debt

The following table presents total unmatured debt arranged in order of maturity:

[1] It should be noted that all Canada savings bonds are redeemable on demand regardless of maturity date and that $2,425 million of marketable bonds reported as maturing in 1987 and 1988 are exchangeable at the option of the holder for bonds maturing in 1992/94.

12. Accumulated Deficit

In accordance with its stated accounting policies, revenues and expenditures of certain specified purpose accounts are included in the revenue and expenditure of the Government. However, enabling legislation requires that such revenues be earmarked and that related payments be charged against such revenue. Any deficiency of payments over revenue must, in accordance with enabling legislation, be met through future revenue of these specified purpose accounts. The table below presents the balances of these accounts as at March 31, 1986 included in the accumulated deficit as follows:

	(in millions of dollars)

13. Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities

Total net expenditure by envelope of $111,227 million ($109,215 million in 1985) reported on the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure differs from the total use of budgetary appropriations of $103,164 million ($100,254 million in 1985) reported on the Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities. The difference represents transactions of certain specified purpose accounts, the provision for valuation which is not applied to each appropriation and budgetary transactions internal to the Government as follows:

15. Child Tax Credit

Entitlements to the child tax credit are claimed on personal income tax returns. Claims are settled either by reducing the tax liability for the year or, if no liability exists, by issuing a "refund" cheque. In either case, personal income tax revenues are reduced, even where no tax had been paid. Had these tax reductions and direct payments been reported as expenditures, gross total expenditure and revenue would have increased respectively by $1,499 million ($1,609 million in 1985).

16. Borrowings of Agent Crown Corporations

Included in Borrowings of agent Crown corporations of $14.6 billion ($12.9 billion in 1985) are the borrowings of the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB) of $4.1 billion ($4 billion in 1985) and the borrowings of the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) of $1 billion ($1 billion in 1985).

i. Canadian Wheat Board (CWB)

The borrowings of the CWB have been incurred to finance credit grain sales to various countries. Terms of the credit grain sales call for payment in full within 36 months or less from time of shipment. However, certain countries are experiencing difficulties in servicing their international financial obligations, of which approximately $3 billion including accrued interest, are owing to CWB. Of this amount, approximately $2.2 billion was in arrears as at March 31, 1986.

It should be noted that, for such loans to sovereign borrowers, payment delays are not necessarily indicative of a future loss requiring an allowance. Sovereign entities and their international financial obligations do not have commercial mortality and the international system provides several mechanisms and institutions through which countries facing repayment difficulties can effect remedial measures in agreement with their creditors. The Government and CWB are presently in the process of negotiating the rescheduling of those sovereign obligations that are in arrears, together with accrued interest thereon. The Government is of the opinion that these negotiations will result in no significant loss on CWB's related assets.

Therefore, the Government, as guarantor of CWB's borrowings to finance credit grain sales, has made no valuation allowance in the accounts of Canada.

ii. Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC)

The borrowings of CDIC have been incurred to finance a deficit, at March 31, 1986, of $1,259 million as a result of a provision for actual and expected losses due to insolvent member institutions. CDIC provides depositors with insurance of up to $60,000 per depositor per member institution on Canadian deposits with a term not exceeding 5 years, for which the member institutions pay insurance premiums.

In accordance with the CDIC Act, CDIC is authorized to borrow up to $1.5 billion from the Government against which it had borrowed $935 million as at March 31, 1986. These borrowings bear interest at current rates to Crown corporations and are fully repayable to the Government. During 1986, the Government amended the CDIC Act to increase premiums for one year and is continuing to explore alternatives to allow CDIC, in the long run, to repay its borrowings and eliminate its deficit without Government support. The Government is of the opinion that no allowance need be established in the accounts of Canada.

17. Commitments under Capital Lease Arrangements

Major capital assets of the Government are either purchased outright or leased. Where a lease transfers substantially all of the benefits and risks incidental to ownership of the property to the lessee, it is considered a capital lease. The Government has entered into capital leases with outside parties for buildings and equipment.

In accordance with the accounting policies of the Government, lease payments under capital leases are charged to budgetary expenditure in the year of payment. Such payments are authorized annually by Parliament. The Government's total remaining commitments under capital lease arrangements, in excess of $100 thousand each ($1 million each in 1985), entered into as at March 31, 1986, amounted to $1,613 million ($1,635 million in 1985). Included in this amount is $1,147 million ($1,175 million in 1985) in imputed interest and $4 million ($5 million in 1985) in executory costs. The resulting net commitments of $462 million ($455 million in 1985) represent the value of the capital assets leased and the principal amount of the liability therefore, which, in accordance with the significant accounting policies of the Government, is not reflected as an asset and liability on the Government's Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

OPINION OF THE AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

I have examined the statement of assets and liabilities of the Government of Canada as at March 31, 1986 and the statements of revenue and expenditure, transactions, accumulated deficit and source and disposition of authorities for the year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary to enable me to report as required by Section 6 of the Auditor General Act.

In my opinion, these financial statements present information in accordance with the stated accounting policies of the Government of Canada as set out in Note 1 to the financial statements applied, after giving retroactive effect to the changes in accounting policies described in Note 3, on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year. However, in my opinion, because of the stated accounting policies that I consider inappropriate as outlined in Reservations 1, 2 and 3, the accompanying financial statements do not present fairly the financial position of the Government as at March 31, 1986 and the results of its operations and its financial requirements for the year then ended.

Reservation 1: Failure to Provide for Crown Corporation Borrowings

The Government's accounting policy stated in Note 1 (i) requires that borrowings of agent Crown corporations be recorded as a liability of the Government, net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by those corporations. The purpose of this policy is to recognize an allowance for corporate borrowings expected to be repaid by the Government. As described in Note 16 (i) the Canadian Wheat Board, an agent Crown corporation, has incurred $4.1 billion in borrowings to finance credit grain sales. Of this amount, $3.0 billion relates to receivables from countries experiencing difficulties in servicing their debts, including $900 million of accrued and unpaid interest on receivables arising from sales in the period 1978-1983. The Government has not provided for any portion of the Board's borrowings because, in accordance with the accounting policy stated in Note 1 (viii), amounts receivable from sovereign states are not reduced in value unless the states formally repudiate their debts. In my view, sound accounting practice would require that the allowance for borrowings of agent Crown corporations be increased by at least the portion of the Board's borrowings used to finance accrued interest. If this had been done, reported liabilities and accumulated deficit would be increased by at least $900 million, and the deficit for the year would be increased by at least $200 million.

Reservation 2: Failure to Consolidate Crown Corporations

The assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures reported in the separate financial statements of Crown corporations are excluded from the Financial Statements of the Government of Canada as described in Note 1 (i). As a result, I believe that the accompanying financial statements do not provide a comprehensive and complete summary of the full nature and extent of the financial affairs and resources for which the Government is responsible. For example, the significant losses incurred by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation and Petro-Canada are not included in the Government's reported results of operations.

One method of broadening the Government's reporting entity to include all Crown corporations is illustrated in Note 5. Under this approach, which uses the Government's modified cash basis of accounting, physical assets and revenue accruals of Crown corporations are eliminated from the table. Such amounts are not required to be recorded and reported by the Government under the accounting policies described in Note 1. The Government and the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants are conducting studies to determine the extent to which and how the separate financial statements of Crown corporations should be consolidated with those of the Government, and the alternative presentation that would be appropriate for any not consolidated. Until these studies are complete, I am unable to determine the effect of this matter on the Government's financial statements.

Reservation 3: Unrecorded Liabilities

In accordance with the accounting policy stated in Note 1 (vi), financial obligations in respect of indexing employee pensions are not fully recorded in the accompanying financial statements. I believe that additional financial obligations for indexing should be recorded in the financial statements to provide a more complete presentation of liabilities. As disclosed in Note 9, if the full amount of such obligations had been recorded, reported liabilities and accumulated deficit would be increased by approximately $4.5 billion ($4.7 billion in 1985 using the same methods and assumptions) and the deficit for the year would be decreased by $200 million.

Further, as disclosed in Note 6, the Government has not provided for the deficit in the Mortgage Insurance Fund. If provision had been made for this deficit, reported liabilities and accumulated deficit would be increased by $472 million ($640 million in 1985) and the deficit for the year would be decreased by $168 million (increased by $414 million in 1985).

Additional information and comments on the financial statements and this opinion are included in my observations in Section 3 of this volume.

Observations by the Auditor General on the Financial Statements of the Government of Canada

Introduction

I have examined the financial statements of the Government of Canada for the year ended March 31, 1986 which, together with my Opinion, are included in Section 2 of this volume. These financial statements are the Statement of Assets and Liabilities, the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, the Statement of Transactions, the Statement of Accumulated Deficit, and the Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities.

My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary to enable me to report as required by Section 6 of the Autitor General Act. This section provides that:

> "The Auditor General shall examine the several financial statements required by section 55 of the Financial Administration Act to be included in the Public Accounts, and any other statement that the President of the Treasury Board or the Minister of Finance may present for audit and shall express his opinion as to whether they present fairly information in accordance with stated accounting policies of the federal government and on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year together with any reservations he may have." (italics added)

The word fairly is used to express the auditor's judgment as to the appropriateness of the selection and application of accounting principles to the particular circumstances of an enterprise. Because of the significant and pervasive effect on the financial statements of the matters reported in my Reservations, I have concluded that:

> "... the accompanying financial statements do not present fairly the financial position of the Government as at March 31, 1986 and the results of its operations and its financial requirements for the year then ended." (italics added)

My Opinion includes three Reservations concerning the appropriateness of the Government's stated accounting policies. The first Reservation is new and concerns a failure by the Government to provide for Crown corporation borrowings. The second and third Reservations address those issues reported last year that have not been resolved by the accounting policy changes discussed below.

The accounting policy changes described in Note 3 were introduced in the February 1986 Budget of the Minister of Finance and represent a significant improvement in the Government's financial reporting practices. The changes have resulted in special assistance loans to developing countries being provided for in full and consolidation with the Government's financial statements of the Unemployment Insurance Account, the Western Grain Stabilization Account, the Crop Reinsurance Fund and the Exchange Fund Account. The provision for special assistance loans has allowed me to delete last year's Reservation entitled "Assets Reported at Amounts in Excess of Their Value" (Reservation 2 in 1985). The consolidation of the separate accounts and funds has eliminated the need for that part of last year's Reservation on fragmented reporting entitled "Excluded departmental activities" (Reservation 1(i) in 1985).

The Observations that follow provide additional explanatory information on the three Reservations in my 1986 Opinion, and comment on the reporting of summary financial information by the Government.

Reservation 1: Failure to Provide for Crown Corporation Borrowings

The Government's accounting policy stated in Note 1(i) requires that the borrowings of agent Crown corporations be recorded as a liability of the Government, net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by those corporations. The policy requires an evaluation by the Government of the ability of its agent corporations to discharge their borrowings and, where it appears that corporate assets will be insufficient for that purpose, for the Government to provide an allowance in the amount of the deficiency. The allowance is reported by the Government as a liability, with any increase during the year included in the deficit.

At March 31, 1986, no allowance has been provided by the Government in respect of borrowings by the Canadian Wheat Board (CWB), even though the Board is having difficulty recovering certain accounts receivable that the borrowings have financed. The Government has not provided for any portion of CWB's borrowings because, in accordance with the accounting policy stated in Note 1 (viii), amounts receivable from sovereign states are not reduced in value unless the states formally repudiate their debts. I believe that an allowance should have been provided by the Government of at least $900 million, and that failure to do so has resulted in a significant understatement of the Government's reported liabilities, accumulated deficit and the deficit for the year.

CWB buys grain from Canadian farmers, and sells it on the world market. Under the Canadian Wheat Board Act, any profit on operations is distributed to the farmers, with any loss being absorbed by the Government. The terms of sales generally specify cash on delivery. However, sales on credit are also made, but only with the concurrence of and within guidelines established by the Government. Accounts receivable from credit sales are financed by bank borrowing that is guaranteed by the Government.

At March 31, 1986, CWB had accounts receivable arising from credit grain sales to various countries of approximately $3.6 billion, of which $3.0 billion was from countries experiencing difficulties in servicing their debts. Included in the $3.0 billion figure are receivables in arrears of approximately $2.2 billion arising from sales in the period 1978-1983, of which $900 million represents accrued and unpaid interest. Of the $2.2 billion, approximately $150 million has been rescheduled because of difficulties experienced by certain countries in servicing their debts. These difficulties continue and further debt reschedulings are expected. Subsequent to March 31, payments on account of the receivables in arrears amounted to only $40 million.

The receivables from countries experiencing difficulties have not been written down to a lower value in CWB's financial statements and interest on these receivables is still being accrued in the accounts. The reason given in the financial statements is that the Board is not at risk should any of its receivables prove uncollectable because the borrowings used to finance them are guaranteed by the Government.

If CWB's borrowings were not guaranteed by the Government, I believe that sound accounting practices would require the Board to cease accruing interest on its receivables in arrears and to write them down to a lower value. This would be consistent with the spirit of the Inspector General of Banks' rules for valuing loans by commercial banks to sovereign nations that are experiencing difficulties in servicing their debts. These rules require that loans become "non-accrual": after 90 days if there is significant doubt as to collectibility of principal and interest; or after 180 days of interest being in arrears; or if management believes a loss will occur. Once a loan becomes "non-accrual", all accrued interest is generally written off, with subsequent recoveries used to reduce the principal balance. A valuation reserve would also be required to reduce the reported value of the principal for loans to certain countries. If these criteria were applied to CWB's receivables, a significant reduction in the reported value of the receivables, would likely be required.

As explained in Note 16(i) to the financial statements, the Government believes that payment delays on amounts receivable from sovereign nations are not necessarily indicative of a future loss requiring an allowance. (italics added) However, in the case of CWB, it seems very clear to me that the receivables in arrears arising from sales in the period 1978-1983 do not have sufficient value to fully discharge related borrowings. By failing to provide an allowance in respect of the Board's borrowings of at least the amount of accrued interest on these receivables, I believe that the Government is understating its reported liabilities and accumulated deficit by at least $900 million and its deficit for the year by at least $200 million. I would urge the Government to revise its position on this matter and establish an appropriate allowance for borrowings of the Canadian Wheat Board at the earliest possible date.

Reservation 2: Failure to Consolidate Crown Corporations

The assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures reported in the separate financial statements of Crown corporations are excluded from the financial statements of the Government of Canada as described in Note 1(i). As a result, I believe that the Government's financial statements do not provide a comprehensive and complete summary of the full nature and extent of the financial affairs and resources for which the Government is responsible. At March 31, 1986, the net investments in Crown corporations whose financial statements are not consolidated with those of the Government amounted to approximately $23 billion, or 64 per cent of the Government's net recorded assets.

One method of broadening the Government's reporting entity to include all Crown corporations is illustrated in Note 5 to the financial statements. Under this approach, which uses the Government's modified cash basis of accounting, physical assets and revenue accruals of Crown corporations are excluded from the table. Such amounts are not required to be recorded and reported by the Government under the accounting policies described in Note 1.

The Government is studying the extent to which and how the separate financial statements of Crown corporations should be consolidated with those of the Government, and the alternative presentation that would be appropriate for any not consolidated. The Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants' Public Sector Accounting and Auditing Committee (PSAAC) is also studying this issue. Until these studies are complete, I am unable to determine the effect on the Government's financial statements of the failure to consolidate Crown corporations.

However, the exclusion of corporate activities from the Government's statements can have a significant effect on reported financial position and results of operations. Consider the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation, whose financial affairs are summarized in Note 16, and Petro-Canada, whose financial statements are included in Volume III of the Public Accounts. At March 31, 1986, the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation had a deficit of $1,259 million, of which $387 million represented a loss during the year. At December 31, 1985, Petro-Canada reported a net loss for the year of $769 million after reducing the carrying value of certain resource properties and related assets by $865 million net of income taxes.

Until such time as the Government's financial statements are broadened to include Crown corporations on some appropriate basis, they will continue to provide only a partial, and in my view misleading, picture of the Government's overall financial position, results of operations and financial requirements. I would encourage Government officials to complete their study and adjust the financial statements on a priority basis.

A related concern – Expenditures offset against revenues

Last year, I called attention to the Government's practice of reporting payments under the Child Tax Credit program as a reduction in personal income tax revenue rather than as a program expenditure. This practice continues. In Note 15, the Government has disclosed what the effect on reported revenue and expenditure would be if payments under the program were charged to expenditure of the Social Affairs envelope, as I believe they should have been. I have not included this matter in my Reservations because it has no effect on the reported deficit for the year.

Reservation 3: Unrecorded Liabilities

Indexing of employee pensions

The Government has defined liabilities as financial obligations to outside organizations and individuals as a result of events and transactions recorded as at the closing date. However, in accordance with the accounting policy stated in Note 1(vi) and as described in Note 9, financial obligations amounting to approximately $4.5 billion related to indexing provisions of employee pension plans (including the Public Service, the Canadian Forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police) have not been recorded.

Although Note 9 is informative, until the Government appropriately adjusts the financial statements to reflect an additional liability for indexing, the burden is on the reader to do so. I consider this both unfair and undesirable. A reader unfamiliar with financial statements may get quite a different picture than a reader with more experience in this area.

The unrecorded liability for indexing was estimated by the Government at $15.8 billion at March 31, 1985, some $11.3 billion higher than the $4.5 billion estimate at March 31, 1986. The significant decline results from a change in the method of estimation and assumptions used, and not from a change in employee pension entitlements. The new method assumes higher real rates of interest in the next few years, taking into account the high interest rates that the Government is committed to use in crediting amounts to the superannuation accounts and the Government's expectation of continuing low inflation. I have engaged independent actuaries to study the Government's new method of estimation and assumptions. They have advised me that for accounting purposes, the method is acceptable and the assumptions are within the range of acceptability.

The Government has also calculated that the unrecorded liability for indexing would have amounted to $4.7 billion at March 31, 1985 had the new basis of estimation been used at that time. Accordingly, if indexing had been provided for in the accounts on a consistent basis, the deficit for the year would have decreased by $200 million.

Government officials have advised me that they are continuing to review the financing, accounting and funding of employee pension plans in anticipation of legislative changes.

Deficit of Mortgage Insurance Fund

The Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF) is administered by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), an agent Crown corporation, on behalf of the Government. The Fund was created to facilitate an adequate supply of mortgage funds by reducing the risk to lenders and encouraging the secondary market trading of mortgages. If assets of the Fund are not sufficient to meet claims against it, the Government advances money to CMHC to permit the Corporation to discharge its obligations on behalf of the Fund.

The MIF has reported deficits over the past several years. After giving retroactive effect to forgiveness by the Government of loans made to the Fund in the current and prior years, the deficits as adjusted at March 31 are as summarized below.

	1986	1985	1984
Deficit as reported by the Fund	472	812	534
Government loan forgiveness included in deficit	76
Government loans forgiven	(76)	(172)	(308)
Deficit as adjusted	472	640	226

As explained in Note 6 to the financial statements, the Government believes that no allowance need be established in the accounts of Canada for the deficit of the Fund. I disagree. In my judgement, the deficits (as adjusted in the above table) are actual liabilities of the Government that should be recorded in the accounts and included in the financial statements because:

- they represent a qualified actuary's best estimate of amounts payable in the future in respect of losses incurred from insurance in force; and
- funds are unlikely to be available in the future from other than the Government to cover these losses.

If an allowance had been established in the accounts of Canada for the deficit of the Mortgage Insurance Fund, as I believe it should have been, reported liabilities and the accumulated deficit would have increased by $472 million ($640 million in 1985) and the deficit for the year would have decreased by $168 million (increased by $414 million in 1985).

Reporting of Summary Financial Information

In my judgement, the opportunity has never been better for significant improvements in financial reporting in the Canadian public sector.

- The accounting profession is addressing contentious issues in public sector accounting and reporting and is achieving consensus in resolving them with those who use, prepare and audit government financial statements.
- Governments are revising their financial statements to provide users with more of the information they need.
- A major research project on financial reporting by federal governments has been completed and published by my Office and the United States General Accounting Office.

Each of these initiatives provides both an opportunity and a challenge for bringing about significant reforms in financial reporting by Canadian governments.

The accounting profession is making progress

The Public Sector Accounting and Auditing Committee (PSAAC) of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants has completed the second of three projects designed to establish a framework for generally accepted accounting principles and financial reporting standards appropriate for governments.

The first project was completed in 1984 and identifies five objectives of government financial statements. The second recommends general reporting principles and standards for the disclosure of information in government financial statements. The third has begun to address the principles and criteria for defining the government financial reporting entity and the related questions of consolidation and accounting for long-term investments. A fourth project dealing with accounting for employee pensions by government will soon begin.

In addition, PSAAC plans to conduct a research study on the recording and reporting of physical assets. Clearly, the development of generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) for Canadian governments is well under way. The challenge now is for governments and their auditors to continue working together with PSAAC to ensure that government GAAP is developed and implemented at the earliest possible date.

The Government of Canada is making progress

In the past three years, the Government of Canada has made a number of improvements to the financial statements in Section 2 of Volume I of the Public Accounts of Canada. In 1984, a valuation allowance was provided against some of the international development assistance assets that were overstated, and significant liabilities for statutory programs were provided for in the accounts. In addition, note disclosure of unrecorded employee pension liabilities and of excluded departmental and Crown corporation activities was expanded.

In 1985, the Government consolidated transactions in the Canadian Ownership Account with its financial statements and simplified the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure by providing a functional display of expenditure by envelope and reducing the categories of reported revenue. In addition, note disclosure was provided of what the main financial statement totals would look like if Crown corporations were fully consolidated on the Government's existing accounting basis, and notes were added on capital lease commitments and significant uncertainties relating to the Canadian Wheat Board and the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation.

In 1986, departmental activities that were previously excluded from the Government's financial statements have been consolidated with them, the effect of transactions between departments has been eliminated from the accounts, and a valuation allowance has been provided against the remaining international development assistance assets that were overstated.

These changes are consistent with the PSAAC pronouncements that have been issued to date, and have resulted in more of the financial information about the Government that people need being provided. The challenge now is for the Government to make such further changes as are necessary to enable an audit opinion without reservation to be expressed on the financial statements at the earliest possible date.

A complementary research project

This year, my Office and the United States General Accounting Office completed a two-year Federal Government Reporting Study (FGRS) designed to identify the financial information about federal governments that users need. The results of the study should provide objective and credible input to PSAAC in developing government GAAP and to the federal government in making further improvements to its financial statements.

The most significant overall finding of FGRS was that virtually all the users consulted required a comprehensive but succinct annual financial report. An illustration of what such a document might look like for the Government of Canada was published as part of the research.

Reaction to FGRS has been positive. Findings have been provided to and discussed with PSAAC, and are proving to be very helpful to the Committee in its work. The Standing Committee on Public Accounts of the House of Commons considered the Study's findings in a public hearing on June 19, 1986. Members expressed interest in having the Government prepare and publish an annual financial report along the lines illustrated. At the hearing, the Comptroller General of Canada explained that FGRS findings will be thoroughly explored with the President of the Treasury Board, the Minister of Finance and the Receiver General. He indicated that a substantive progress report could be provided to the Committee within one year, with a final report on the Government's position within two years.

FGRS has provided a vehicle for defining and communicating the financial information about the federal government that users need. The challenge now is for users to create the climate within which both PSAAC and the Government will be encouraged to respond.

ENVELOPES AND OUTLAYS

The increasing complexity of Government responsibilities and the limited resources available to meet those responsibilities led to the policy and expenditure management system. Under this system, the Government manages the resources made available to it by "envelopes". Each envelope represents the resources allocated to a particular policy sector for all elements of ministerial spending that relate to that sector.

Under the envelope system, spending is measured in terms of outlays for budgetary expenditure and for loans, investments and advances. Outlays for budgetary expenditure include costs of servicing the public debt, operating and capital expenditure, grants and contributions to other levels of government, persons and organizations, and other forms of transfer payments. Outlays for loans, investments and advances represent the net change in loans, investments and advances.

Details of Outlays by Envelope

Table 4.1 presents outlays on a comparative basis for budgetary expenditure and for loans, investments and advances by major element within each envelope.

ESTIMATES AND APPROPRIATIONS

Parliamentary Spending Authorities

The Government submits its spending proposals to Parliament in the annual Estimates. During the year, the Government may request further appropriations. The initial request is called the "Main Estimates" and additional requests are called "Supplementary Estimates". With these Estimates, the Government requests authority for that part of the proposed spending which is not already provided by other statutes. The amounts making up the total of such proposed spending are authorized in appropriation acts and are generally referred to as "annual" authorities. The balance of the planned spending is made under authority of other statutes which authorize disbursements for specified purposes, and for such amounts and time periods as are set by those acts. The proposed or estimated uses of most of these "statutory" authorities for the current year are included in the Estimates for information purposes; however, they are not included in appropriation acts because they have already been authorized by Parliament.

Annual authorities, with few exceptions, lapse at the end of the year if not used, while statutory authorities, with few exceptions, are carried forward to future years. Those authorities which extend to subsequent years are referred to as "non-lapsing".

Both the budgetary expenditure amounts and the non-budgetary requirements for loans, investments and advances are included under each type of spending authority, annual and statutory.

Table 4.3 presents, for the year ended March 31, 1986, a summary of parliamentary spending authorities requested and approved (annual authority), and estimated uses of authorities already granted (statutory authority).

A Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities by ministry, as examined by the Auditor General, is presented in Section 2 of this volume. Additional details on the source and disposition of authorities by ministry and by type (annual and statutory) are given in Section 1 (Table 3) of Volume II (Part I), and in the ministerial sections of the same volume.

Source and Disposition of Authorities—Annual and Statutory Budgetary appropriations provide spending authority for those transactions which enter into the calculation of the annual deficit or surplus of the Government. Non-budgetary appropriations provide spending authority for all transactions which result in the acquisition or disposal of loans, investments and advances. Balances of appropriations brought forward from the previous years are available for spending, together with current increases to such authorities.

The totals of these authorities are reduced by the amount of their current year use to determine the balances which lapse, are overexpended or are carried forward to future years, depending upon the type of authority. In cases where the spending of loan repayments is authorized, the non-budgetary spending is reported net of such repayments.

Table 4.4 presents details of the total available parliamentary spending authorities. They include authorities available from previous years, parliamentary spending authorities as per Table 4.3 and various adjustments which are explained in the notes to the table.

Table 4.5 presents a summary of the source and disposition of authorities by type (annual and statutory) for the year ended March 31, 1986.

Further ministerial details are presented in Section 1 (Table 3) of Volume II (Part I).

Reconciliation of Outlays for Loans, Investments and Advances to Non-budgetary Use of Appropriations

The following presents a reconciliation of total outlays for loans, investments and advances, as shown in Table 4.1, with the total of non-budgetary appropriations used in the current year, as shown in the Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities in Section 2 of this volume.

The major difference relates to repayments of loans under appropriations which do not authorize spending of repayments. Such amounts are deducted from gross outlays for envelope reporting but not for reporting the use of appropriations.

BUDGETARY REVENUE

Budgetary revenue consists of all tax and non-tax receipts which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government, and includes revenue internal to the Government.

The Government generally reports revenue in the year in which it is received, with refunds of revenue allocated to the year in which they are actually paid.

Revenue is reported after deducting refunds paid, and excludes amounts receivable, taxes collected on behalf of provinces and territories, and amounts credited to the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts, other specified purpose accounts, and other liability accounts.

Revenue for a year, therefore, includes receipts credited to the Receiver General by the Bank of Canada and the chartered banks by March 31, and amounts received in Government offices by March 31, but not deposited until April, or not credited to the Receiver General until April. Revenue also includes the amounts received in the mail on the first working day of April, except where it is clear that it was the remitter's intention to discharge an obligation arising in the new year.

The yield from tax revenue is affected by changes in tax rates, by changes in the base on which taxes are calculated, and by variations in economic conditions. A taxpayer's income tax liability relates to the income of a taxation year, but advance collection of personal and corporation income taxes by payroll deductions and instalments results in a distribution of receipts throughout the year.

The major tax changes which had an effect on this year's tax revenue are:

—personal income tax—in 1985, the federal tax reduction was lowered from $200 to $100 and was subsequently eliminated commencing in the 1986 tax year; the indexation of personal income tax exemptions and tax brackets was restricted to the annual increase in the Consumer Price Index that exceeds 3%, beginning in the 1986 tax year; effective July 1, 1985, a surtax of 5% was imposed on basic federal tax between $6,000 and $15,000, while a 10% surtax was imposed on basic federal tax in excess of $15,000, and, in the 1985 tax year, capital gains realized by individuals after 1984 were exempt up to a cumulative limit of $10,000 of taxable capital gains as part of the phase-in of the $500,000 lifetime capital gains exemption introduced in the May 23, 1985 Budget;

—corporation income tax—effective July 1, 1985, a 5% surtax was applied to corporate tax liabilities, with the exception of tax on income qualifying for the small business tax rate; commencing January 1, 1986, a temporary two-year tax on larger financial institutions regulated under the Bank Act, the Quebec Savings Banks Act and under the federal and provincial trust and/or loan corporation legislation was imposed at an annual rate of 1% of capital employed in Canada in excess of $200 million; the special investment tax credit of 50%, which was due to expire at the end of 1985, was extended for a one-year period in the May 23, 1985 Budget; and, the expenditure base for investment tax credits was restricted to qualifying expenditures net of grant payments in respect of these expenditures for expenditures performed and grants received after May 23, 1985;

—sales tax—beginning December 1, 1984, farmers, fishermen, loggers and mine operators were offered a fuel tax rebate on purchases of gasoline and diesel fuel for off-highway use in commercial activities; effective January 1, 1986, the federal sales tax rate was increased 1 percentage point; commencing July 1, 1985, the federal sales tax was extended to soft drinks, candy and confectionary, pet foods, non-prescription drugs and health goods, surgical and dental instruments and energy conservation goods; the special relieving provisions for construction goods manufactured away from the construction site were removed effective July 1, 1985; and, the federal sales tax on prerecorded video cassettes was shifted from the manufacturer's level to the wholesale level effective July 1, 1985;

—excise taxes and duties—effective May 23, 1985, the indexation of the specific levies on alcoholic beverages and tobacco products was eliminated, while the then existing specific excise tax on cigarettes was increased by 1 cent per cigarette and the specific excise levies on alcohol were increased 2% effective May 23, 1985;

—customs import duties—as scheduled under the Multilateral Trade Negotiations, the seventh of eight annual tariff reductions was implemented in January 1986;

—petroleum and gas revenue tax (PGRT)—the annual tax credit allowed a corporation or a group of associated corporations against its PGRT on production revenue, other than production royalties, was increased from $250,000 to $500,000 in respect of production revenue earned after December 31, 1984; the Western Energy Accord allowed for the phase-out of the PGRT with the effective tax rates for conventional and synthetic oil reduced to 10% and 6%, respectively, beginning January 1, 1986; production revenue and royalties related to oil, natural gas, and gas liquids produced from new wells on which drilling began on or after April 1, 1985 was exempted from PGRT; for taxation years ending after March 31, 1985, unused corporate income tax deductions associated with certain eligible exploration and development expenses could be used to reduce a corporation's PGRT; and, commencing in the 1986 tax year, the first $10,000 of an individual Canadian resident's annual resource income on production was exempted from the PGRT; and,

—other energy taxes—effective September 3, 1985, the excise tax on gasoline and aviation gasoline for personal use was increased by 2 cents per litre and a new 2 cents per litre excise tax on diesel fuel and aviation turbo fuel was imposed; under the provisions of the Western Energy Accord agreed to by the federal government and the governments of Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan, the Canadian Ownership special charge, the oil export charges, the natural gas and gas liquids tax and the incremental oil revenue tax were eliminated effective June 1, 1985.

Under fiscal arrangements that became operative in 1962, the federal Government entered into tax collection agreements to collect the personal income taxes of all provinces and territories (except Quebec) and the corporation income taxes of all provinces and territories (except Ontario, Quebec and Alberta). Personal and corporation income taxes collected by the federal Government on behalf of the provinces and territories are not included in the tables shown hereunder.

Reconciliation of Total Net Revenue

Changes have been made, in 1986, in the valuation and classification of certain assets and liabilities, and in the recognition of international reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account. Commencing with 1985-86 (1984-85 for the Canadian Ownership Account), the transactions of certain specified purpose accounts are reported with budgetary revenue and expenditure. These accounts are:

- Unemployment Insurance Account;
- Canadian Ownership Account;
- Western Grain Stabilization Account;
- Oil Export Charges Revenue Sharing Account; and,
- Crop Reinsurance Fund.

However, since enabling legislation requires that the transactions in each of these specified purpose accounts be accounted for separately as non-budgetary transactions, the revenue reported elsewhere in the Public Accounts do not include the revenue recorded in these accounts.

Commencing with 1985-86, foreign exchange reserves, rather than the outstanding advances to acquire such reserves, are reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. Accordingly, a debit adjustment of $556 million was made to Non-tax revenue—Return on investments (Exchange Fund Account).

Therefore, Table 5.2 is a comparative reconciliation of total net revenue reported in Table 5.1 with other tables and statements appearing elsewhere in the remaining portion of this section and in Volume II of the Public Accounts.

Sales tax

The sales tax, totalling $9,383 million in 1985-86, was the most important tax levied under the Excise Tax Act.

Customs import duties

The revenues from customs import duties, consisting mainly of ad valorem taxes on the importation of goods, totalled $3,975 million in 1985-86.

Excise duties

Excise duties, which totalled $1,473 million in 1985-86, are levied on alcoholic beverages (other than wines) and tobacco products. (Additional taxes on tobacco products and taxes on wines are levied under the Excise Tax Act.)

Petroleum and gas revenue tax and incremental oil revenue tax

The petroleum and gas revenue tax came into effect on January 1, 1981, and is applicable to net operating revenues related to the production of oil and gas.

The incremental oil revenue tax was eliminated effective June 1, 1985.

Excise tax—Gasoline

Net receipts from the excise tax—Gasoline were $729 million in 1985-86. Under certain conditions, the amounts received may be refunded to purchasers. As of March 31, 1986, $781 million was received, and $52 million was refunded and charged to revenue.

Oil export charges

The federal share of revenues from oil export charges totalled $185 million in 1985-86. In accordance with Section 17.1(1)(b) of the Energy Administration Act, oil export charges are shared with oil producing provinces. The share is in respect of oil produced in, and exported from, provinces during the year.

The oil export charges were eliminated effective June 1, 1985.

Aviation gas and diesel fuel

In the May 1985 Budget, a new 2 cents per litre excise tax on diesel fuel and aviation turbo fuel was imposed effective September 3, 1985.

Natural gas and gas liquids tax

This tax, which came into effect during 1980-81, was imposed on all sales of natural gas and gas liquids. It was eliminated effective June 1, 1985.

Non-Tax Revenue

Return on Investments

Return on investments consists mainly of interest from loans and advances, transfer of profits and surpluses, and rental income from properties.

Return on investments is summarized in Table 5.5. Additional details are given in the ministerial sections of Volume II (Part I) and in Section 11 of Volume II (Part II).

BUDGETARY EXPENDITURE

Budgetary expenditure consists of all charges to budgetary appropriations which affect the annual deficit or surplus of the Government. In addition, budgetary expenditure may also include charges related to the provision for valuation of loans, investments and advances, allowance for borrowings of agent Crown corporations, and accounts payable and other allowances related to statutory items and certain annual appropriations. Such charges include those for work performed, goods received, services rendered, and transfer payments made, during the year and in the supplementary period including accounts payable at year end, and, expenditure internal to the Government.

Expenditure excludes amounts charged to the Canada Pension Plan Account, superannuation accounts, other specified purpose accounts, and other liability accounts.

In this section, expenditure is analysed in several different ways:

- by envelope, i.e. policy sector;
- by standard object, i.e. productive resources acquired or transfer payments made;
- by program, i.e. purpose; and,
- by type, i.e. operating, capital, and transfer payments.

Expenditure by Envelope

The Government, under its policy and expenditure management system, manages the resources made available to it by "envelope". Each envelope represents the resources allocated to a particular policy sector for all elements of ministerial spending that relates to that sector. Table 6.1 presents budgetary expenditure by envelope. The table is presented on both a gross and net basis and segregates expenditure with outside parties from expenditure internal to the Government. The difference between gross and net expenditure is revenue credited to appropriations.

Reconciliation of Total Net Expenditure

Total net expenditure of $111,343 million ($109,425 million in 1985) reported in Table 6.1 differs from the total use of budgetary appropriations of $103,164 million ($100,254 million in 1985) reported (by ministry) on the Statement of Source and Disposition of Authorities (Section 2 of this volume). The difference represents transactions of consolidated specified purpose accounts including budgetary transactions internal to the Government and the provision for valuation of loans, investments and advances which is not applied to each appropriation, and the accrual of liabilities related to statutory items and other appropriations. Changes have been made, in 1986, in the valuation and classification of certain assets and liabilities, and in the recognition of international reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account.

Commencing with 1985-86 (1984-85 for the Canadian Ownership Account), the transactions of certain specified purpose accounts are reported with budgetary revenue and expenditure. These accounts are:

- Unemployment Insurance Account;
- Canadian Ownership Account;
- Western Grain Stabilization Account;
- Oil Export Charges Revenue Sharing Account; and,
- Crop Reinsurance Fund.

However, since enabling legislation requires that the transactions in each of these specified purpose accounts be accounted for separately as non-budgetary transactions, the expenditure reported elsewhere in the Public Accounts do not include the expenditure recorded in these accounts.

Therefore, Table 6.2 is a comparative reconciliation of total net expenditure reported in Table 6.1 with other tables and statements appearing elsewhere in Volumes I (Section 4 and remaining portion of this section) and II of the Public Accounts.

Expenditure by Standard Object

The standard object presentation of expenditure is related to the goods and services acquired, and transfer payments made, by the Government.

A comparative summary of expenditure by standard object is presented in Table 6.3. Additional details are given in Section 1 (Table 4) of Volume II (Part I).

Transfer payments were the largest category, and accounted for $47,115 million or 46% of total net expenditure. Payments included fiscal transfer payments to provinces, $5,403 million; payments under the Public Utilities Income Tax Act, $299 million; payments for insured health services and extended health care, $6,386 million; family allowance payments, $2,500 million; guaranteed income supplement payments, $3,319 million; spouse's allowance payments, $348 million; old age security payments, $8,858 million; Canada Assistance Plan payments, $3,876 million; and, post-secondary education payments, $2,278 million.

Personnel accounted for $13,330 million or 13% of total net expenditure. The increase of $422 million was due mainly to higher salary rates.

Public debt charges totalled $25,505 million or 25% of total net expenditure. The increase of $2,954 million was due mainly to an increase in unmatured debt.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENTS

Public Debt Charges

Public debt charges include interest on unmatured debt (including Treasury bills), on specified purpose accounts and on other accounts, cost of issuing new loans, amortization of bond discounts, premiums and commissions, and the costs of servicing the public debt.

The increase of $2,511 million in public debt charges related to unmatured debt reflects mainly an increase in this debt, which rose from $172,897 million at March 31, 1985 to $201,517 million at March 31, 1986. The increase of $489 million in public debt charges related to specified purpose accounts was due mainly to an increase in superannuation accounts.

A comparative summary of public debt charges is presented in Table 6.6. Details can be found in Section 8 of Volume II (Part II).

Expenditure under Statutory Authority

The spending authority provided by statutory appropriations is for specified purposes and for such amounts and such time as the acts prescribe. This spending authority does not generally lapse at the end of the year in which it is granted. Expenditure under such authority accounts for more than half of the total net expenditure each year.

In 1985-86, expenditure under statutory authority amounted to $67,592 million, accounting for 66% of the total net expenditure of $103,164 million.

Table 6.7 presents a comparative summary of these statutory expenditures.

CONSOLIDATED SPECIFIED PURPOSE ACCOUNTS

Consolidated specified purpose accounts are categories of budgetary revenue and expenditure which report transactions of certain accounts where enabling legislation requires that revenues be earmarked, and that related payments and expenditures be charged against such revenues. Such accounts collect primarily receipts of a tax nature, and include: the Unemployment Insurance Account, the Canadian Ownership Account, the Western Grain Stabilization Account, the Oil Export Charges Revenue Sharing Account and the Crop Reinsurance Fund.

In the past, earmarked revenues were credited to non-budgetary accounts, with related offsetting payments and expenditures charged thereto. Commencing with 1985-86 (1984-85 for the Canadian Ownership Account), the transactions of these accounts are reported with budgetary revenue and expenditure, in order to provide a more comprehensive reporting of the Government's operating results. The figures of the previous year have been restated for comparative purposes.

Further, enabling legislation requires that the transactions in each of these accounts be accounted for separately. Table 7.1 presents a summary of the balances and transactions of these accounts, in the manner required by legislation.

The financial statements of the Unemployment Insurance Account, together with the Auditor General's report thereon, are presented at the end of this section.

Unemployment Insurance Account

The Unemployment Insurance Act provides for a compulsory contributory unemployment insurance program applicable to all employees, with few exceptions.

The Act authorizes an account in the accounts of Canada to be known as the Unemployment Insurance Account.

The Act provides that the following be credited to the Account: (a) premiums, fines, penalties and interest; (b) Government share of benefits paid; (c) refunds of overpayments of benefits, and benefit repayments; (d) amounts for services rendered to other Government departments or agencies, or to the public; (e) amounts provided for any other purpose related to unemployment insurance and authorized by an appropriation administered by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission; and, (f) interest on the balance of the Account at such rates as the Minister of Finance may authorize. The Act also provides that the following be charged to the Account: (a) benefits paid under the Act; (b) costs of administering the Act; and (c) interest on advances made by the Minister of Finance.

Maximum weekly employee premiums were $10.81 from April 1, 1985 to December 31, 1985 and $11.63 from January 1, 1986 to March 31, 1986. For the same periods, maximum weekly benefits were $276 from April 1, 1985 to December 31, 1985 and $297 from January 1, 1986 to March 31, 1986.

Interest bearing loans are made to the Unemployment Insurance Account, under Section 137(1) of the Unemployment Insurance Act, as a result of deficiencies in contributions from employers and employees. The balance outstanding as at March 31, 1986 bears interest at rates between 10% and 12.5% per annum, and is repayable between September 30, 1986 and March 31, 1988.

The purpose of the Western Grain Stabilization Act is to protect prairie grain producers from unexpected and large income declines, through the stabilization of returns on the production and sale of wheat, oats, barley, rye, mustard seed, canola and flax seed as well as any other seed that may be prescribed which is: (a) produced in the designated area and, (b) named in Schedule 1 to the Canada Grain Act and designated therein as "Canada Western".

This account records funds for this purpose which are received from:

(a) levies paid by participating producers—Ranging from 1% to 2½% of grain sales proceeds to an annual maximum of $60,000 eligible proceeds per participant;

(b) Government contributions equal to levies paid by producers plus an additional 2% of the participating eligible grain sales proceeds of all participants; and,

(c) interest on the amount standing to the credit of the Account, at rates and in accordance with terms and conditions determined by the Minister of Finance.

On the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, receipts and other credits of $30 million ($51 million in 1985), are reported as revenue, while payments and other charges of $526 million ($223 million in 1985), are reported as expenditure.

Receipts and other credits of $133 million ($210 million in 1985), internal to the operations of the Government, have been eliminated in order to present transactions with outside parties, only.

Crop Reinsurance Fund

This Fund, established by Section 5(1) of the Crop Insurance Act, provides insurance to participating provinces for costs they incur in operating various crop insurance schemes.

The revenue of the Fund comes from moneys paid by the provinces for the purpose of reinsurance and the expenditure of the Fund are moneys paid to the provinces under the terms of reinsurance agreements.

On the Statement of Revenue and Expenditure, receipts and other credits of $48 million ($20 million in 1985), are reported as revenue, while payments and other charges of $98 million (Nil in 1985), are reported as expenditure.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENT

Canada Employment and Immigration Commission relating to the Unemployment Insurance Account

AUDITOR'S REPORT

TO THE MINISTER OF EMPLOYMENT AND IMMIGRATION

I have examined the balance sheet of the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission relating to the Unemployment Insurance Account as at December 31, 1985 and the statement of revenue, expenses and deficit for the year then ended. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances, except as explained in the following paragraph.

As described in Note 7, the Commission's administration of claimant's record of employment resulted in an overcharge in the government's share of benefits for 1985. It is likely that such overcharges have also existed in previous years. The Commission's estimate of the most likely amount overcharged referred to in Note 7 is subject to imprecisions and has not been recorded in the accounts. Consequently, I was not able to satisfy myself as to the validity of the amount overcharged and accordingly, it is not possible to determine the amount of any adjustment that would be necessary to the amount due to Canada, the government's share of benefits and the accumulated deficit accounts.

In my opinion, except for the effect of any adjustment, described in the preceding paragraph, that would have been necessary had I been able to satisfy myself as to the reasonableness of the amount overcharged in the government's share of benefits, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Commission relating to the Unemployment Insurance Account as at December 31, 1985 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with the accounting policies set out in Note 2 to the financial statements applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

1. Authority and objective

The Canada Employment and Immigration Commission, a departmental corporation named in Schedule B to the Financial Administration Act, administers the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1971 as amended. The objective of the Act is to provide short-term financial relief and other assistance to eligible workers. The financial transactions relating to this objective are reported through the Unemployment Insurance Account.

In the accounts of Canada, the Unemployment Insurance Account was established by Section 131 of the Act. All amounts received under the Act are deposited in the Consolidated Revenue Fund and credited to this Account. Benefits and the cost of administration of the Act are paid out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund and charged to this Account.

Under Part IV of the Act, the Minister of National Revenue is responsible for collecting premiums from employers and employees.

2. Accounting policies

(c) Benefits

Benefits represent warrants issued during the year less benefit overpayments identified by the Commission during the year and benefit repayments received and estimated to be receivable under Section 142 of the Act.

	157,786	(167,534)

5. Advances from Canada

Advances from Canada are made under Section 137 of the Act and the Unemployment Insurance Account Advance Regulations, by means of promissory notes which bear annual interest compounded semi-annually at rates varying from 10.25% to 13.25%. The balance as at December 31 consists of $4,057 million ($3,753 million in 1984) in principal and accrued interest of $431 million ($395 million in 1984). Of the amount of $4,057 million in principal, $1,308 million is repayable in 1986 and $2,749 million in 1987.

6. Overpayments and underpayments of benefits

The large number of claimants to be monitored and the requirement for prompt service require selective internal control procedures rather than universal and therefore the verification of claims is mainly done after claimants have begun to receive benefits.

As a result, overpayments and underpayments of benefits exists which the Commission estimated at $270 million ($300 million in 1984) and $109 million ($84 million in 1984) respectively. These amounts are included in the benefits for the year.

7. Government's share of benefits

The government's share of benefits pursuant to Section 136 of the Act mainly consists of regionally extended benefits paid to claimants who have exhausted their initial benefits and labour force extended benefits if they are entitled. The entitlement of these latter two phases of benefits are determined by the number of insured weeks reported on the claimant's record of employment.

The Commission completed a preliminary study based on a sample of claimants who have drawn the regionally extended benefits in 1985. The study identified that about 10% of claimants did not present all the records of employment during the qualifying period when filing a claim and that 5% of the claimants who have entered in the regionally extended benefit phase could have received initial or labour force extended benefits, instead of the regionally extended benefits. While time did not permit the completion of a detailed statistically viable study, it is estimated that the most likely amount overcharged to the government's share of benefits is between $44 and $65 million. This amount has not been recorded in the accounts. The Commission recognizes that overcharges to the government's share of benefits could have existed in previous years. However, it should be noted that the total benefits paid are not affected, merely the sharing of benefits paid between the government and the premium account.

In 1986, the Commission will complete its study to estimate the amount overcharged to Canada in 1985. Prior to 1985, the Commission is unable to estimate any amount overcharged to the government's share of benefits due to the difficulty in obtaining the necessary information and the cost involved. The Commission is undertaking corrective measures to strengthen the claim processing procedure relative to records of employment being filed and used in determining entitlement when a claim is received. Furthermore, it will include procedures in its on-going monitoring to check for compliance to its procedures.

8. Contingent liabilities

In the normal course of the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Account, certain appeals against or by the Commission are presently outstanding. In the opinion of management, the result of these appeals will not have a significant impact on the operations of the Unemployment Insurance Account.

LOANS, INVESTMENTS AND ADVANCES

Loans, investments and advances is a category of financial claims represented by debt instruments and ownership interests held by the Government of Canada, acquired through the use of parliamentary appropriations. Some of these appropriations permit repayments to be used for further loans and advances. Many appropriations are non-lapsing, that is, unexpended balances may be carried forward from year to year. Details of the use of non-budgetary appropriations, for loans, investments and advances, can be found in the ministerial sections of Volume II (Part I).

Loans, investments and advances are recorded at cost and are subject to valuation to reflect estimated losses on realization. Foreign currency transactions are translated and recorded in Canadian currency equivalents at the exchange rates prevailing at the transaction dates. Loans, investments and advances resulting from foreign currency transactions are, in turn, reported at year-end closing rates of exchange; net gains are credited to revenue as premium and discount on exchange, while net losses are charged to budgetary expenditure of the Department of Finance.

The allowance established to reflect estimated losses on realization of financial claims held by the Government has been authorized by the Minister of Finance and the President of the Treasury Board, under Section 54(2)(b) of the Financial Administration Act.

Revenue received during the year on loans, investments and advances, is credited to return on investments; details are given in Section 11 of Volume II (Part II). In accordance with stated accounting policies, accrued interest and interest due but not received are not reported as revenue. Table 8.16 gives details of recorded uncollected interest.

Transactions and year-end balances of loans, investments and advances are presented as follows:

—Crown corporations;

—provincial and territorial governments;

—national governments including developing countries;

—international organizations;

—Veterans' Land Act Fund advances;

—joint and mixed enterprises; and,

—miscellaneous.

Transactions and balances are further summarized in Sections 1 and 2 of this volume.

Some tables in this section present the continuity of accounts, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as receipts and other credits, and payments and other charges. In addition, the term "account(s) without current transactions" has been included in some tables, to show the net result of transactions in accounts which were closed out in the previous year.

CROWN CORPORATIONS

Loans and advances to, and investments in, Crown corporations represent the balance of financial claims held by the Government against corporations for working capital, capital expenditure and other purposes, investment in the capital stock of corporations, and loans and advances to corporations for re-lending.

A Crown corporation means a parent Crown corporation or a wholly-owned subsidiary; a parent Crown corporation is wholly-owned directly by the Crown; a wholly-owned subsidiary is wholly-owned by one or more parent Crown corporations directly or indirectly through any number of subsidiaries each of which is wholly-owned directly or indirectly by one or more parent Crown corporations. These include the corporations listed in Parts I and II of Schedule C of the Financial Administration Act, the Bank of Canada, the Canada Council, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, the Canadian Film Development Corporation, the Canadian Institute for International Peace and Security, the Canadian Wheat Board, the International Development Research Centre, and the National Arts Centre Corporation.

A Crown corporation is ultimately accountable to Parliament, through a minister of the Crown, for the conduct of its affairs. Most of the Crown corporations listed in the schedules to the Financial Administration Act are agents of Her Majesty in right of Canada. This status is granted in one of the following ways:

(i) designation by Parliament, through a special act of incorporation;
(ii) statutory authorization; and,
(iii) proclamation by the Government Companies Operation Act.

Financial statements of parent Crown corporations can be found in Volume III of the Public Accounts. The financial statements of wholly-owned subsidiaries of Crown corporations are also included in that volume whenever their accounts are not consolidated with those of the parent corporation. These financial statements are appended to those of the related parent Crown corporation.

Lending Institutions

Table 8.2 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for the various types of loans, investments and advances which were made to Crown corporations whose primary activity is to provide financial assistance.

The Jacques Cartier and Champlain Bridges Incorporated

The Corporation was incorporated pursuant to the Canada Business Corporations Act, to operate and maintain the Jacques Cartier Bridge and the Champlain Bridge, and a portion of the Bonaventure Autoroute, in Montreal (Quebec). The Corporation is a wholly-owned subsidiary of The St Lawrence Seaway Authority.

This account records loans which were transferred from the Canada Ports Corporation.

On December 17, 1981, as per PC 1981-3635, the certificates of indebtedness were cancelled and replaced by a certificate bearing an issue date of April 1, 1981, an indefinite due date, with no repayment of principal, and an interest rate equal to zero percent per annum. Furthermore, accrued and unpaid interest amounting to $44,513,580 as of March 31, 1981, on the original certificates, are to be treated as not due and payable as of April 1, 1981.

A non-interest bearing advance of $6,489,605 is reported by the Corporation as being due to the Government. Although this amount has been deleted in the past, from the accounts of Canada, by a direct charge to the accumulated deficit account, it has not been forgiven.

During the year, the Corporation received financial assistance of $3.9 million from budgetary appropriations.

Teleglobe Canada

The Corporation was established by the Teleglobe Canada Act, to establish, maintain and operate, in Canada and elsewhere, external telecommunication services by cable, radiotelegraph, radio-telephone and any other means of telecommunication for the conduct of public communications, and to coordinate Canada's external telecommunication services with those of other parts of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

The Corporation is an agent of Her Majesty, reports through the Minister of Regional Industrial Expansion, and is listed in Part II of Schedule C of the Financial Administration Act.

Section 12 of the Teleglobe Canada Act provides that the Minister of Finance, with the approval of the Governor in Council, may pay to the Corporation, for capital purposes, amounts not exceeding $4,500,000 and, in addition, any other moneys appropriated by Parliament.

The loans bear interest at rates from 3.5% to 5.75% per annum, and are repayable in semi-annual instalments over 15 to 40 years, with final instalments between March 30, 1987 and September 30, 1998.

During the year, the Corporation paid dividends of $188.1 million and interest of $186,220 to the Government.

The terms and conditions of the loans, with their year-end balances, are as follows:

(a) non-interest bearing, having an indefinite maturity date, and requiring no principal repayments, $76,494,444; and,

(b) bearing interest at the rate of 7.5% per annum, repayable in equal annual instalments over 20 years, with the final instalment on December 31, 2000, $4,505,939.

During the year, the Corporation paid interest of $349,982 to the Government.

VIA Rail Canada Inc

The Corporation was incorporated pursuant to the Canada Business Corporations Act, to revitalize passenger rail services in Canada, and to manage and market them on an efficient commercial basis, reducing the financial burden on the Government.

Government of Canada Financial Interest in Crown Corporations

Table 8.4 summarizes the Government's financial interest in its Crown corporations as at March 31, 1986.

In accordance with the accounting policies of the Government, the accounts of Crown corporations are not consolidated with those of the Government and only the financial transactions between the Government and Crown corporations are recorded in the accounts of Canada. Crown corporations are categorized as being either agents or non-agents of the Crown. Agency status is normally expressly stated in the articles of incorporation. Crown corporations are defined to include either parent Crown corporations or wholly-owned subsidiaries. A wholly-owned subsidiary is wholly-owned by one or more parent Crown corporations. This table includes consolidated financial information on parent Crown corporations. Financial information on unconsolidated wholly-owned subsidiary corporations is presented separately. This table summarizes financial information regarding agent and non-agent Crown corporations as at March 31, 1986. This financial information is based on financial statements prepared according to generally accepted private sector accounting principles. For Crown corporations with financial year ends other than March 31, unaudited financial information is included in the table. The table displays "Assets" less "Borrowings and other liabilities", to arrive at "Net assets". "Assets" are further analysed in Table 8.5 "Details of Government of Canada Financial Interest in Crown Corporations" which follows.

In accordance with Section 45 of the Financial Administration Act, the payment of all money borrowed by agent Crown corporations, and interest thereon, is a charge on and payable out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund. Such borrowings therefore constitute unconditional obligations of the Government and are recorded as such in the accounts of Canada net of borrowings expected to be repaid directly by these corporations. Such borrowings are included in the column "Borrowings from other than Government". The amounts which are expected to be repaid by the Government are deducted from this column and are described as the "Allowance for borrowings of agent Crown corporations expected to be repaid by the Government".

Borrowings of non-agent Crown corporations are not obligations of the Government. However, when the Government expressly guarantees such borrowings, they become potential obligations of the Government.

Balances which represent transactions with the Government, and which are recorded in the accounts of Canada include: long-term obligations to the Government, share capital and contributed surplus as well as claims against the Government. Such balances are described in this table as "Recorded financial interest" of the Government.

"Unrecorded financial interest" represents retained earnings of agent and non-agent Crown corporations adjusted for items which had previously been included in their asset and liability accounts. These adjustments arise from timing differences in the recording of transactions between the Crown corporations and the Government. Crown corporations record amounts payable to or receivable from Government on an accrual basis for such items as income taxes. The accounts of Canada do not include such amounts until payment is either received or made. Such amounts which represent transactions with the Government and which are not recorded in the accounts of Canada are adjusted and reported under "Unrecorded financial interest". They include: grants receivable, current or deferred income taxes receivable or payable, capitalized or accrued interest payable, sundry accounts payable, long-term capitalized leases payable and prepaid expenses related to Canada. "Unrecorded financial interest" adjustments represent funds which will be eventually received or disbursed by Canada. Also added to "Unrecorded financial interest" is the "Allowance for borrowings of agent Crown corporations expected to be repaid by the Government" as previously described. Total financial interest represents recorded and unrecorded financial interest. The minus sign indicates a negative financial interest.

Other information presented in this table includes "Change in financial interest from previous year" which identifies the net increase or decrease since April 1, 1985. The major changes in financial interest, including gross transactions with outside parties, are presented in Table 8.5 "Details of Government of Canada Financial Interest in Crown Corporations". Also included in this table is the "Financial assistance under budgetary appropriations" which summarizes the assistance received by these entities during 1985-86. Details are given in Table 8.7 "Financial Assistance under Budgetary Appropriations to Crown Corporations".

Also, Section 40 of the Financial Administration Act states that "an annual statement of all borrowing transactions on behalf of Her Majesty shall be included in the Public Accounts". A statement of all borrowing transactions on behalf of Her Majesty is included in Section 12 of this volume. Transactions and balances related to Crown corporations are presented in Table 8.8.

(10) Canertech Inc is an unconsolidated subsidiary of Petro-Canada and financial information used is as of December 31, 1985.

(11) Bank of Canada—Recorded share capital includes $920 representing a premium paid in respect of the acquisition in 1938 of shares held by the public. Consequently, unrecorded financial interest has been reduced by $920.

(12) Canadian National Railway System—Recorded share capital includes a premium of $19,453 representing the excess of previous years' depreciation not charged to Canadian National Railway's retained earnings over the Government's investments in Canadian Government Railways and Canadian National Railways Company. These investments were charged to budgetary expenditure by the Government of Canada and were credited to shareholder's equity by Canadian National Railways. Consequently, after the capital revision of Canadian National Railways in 1977, the recorded capital stock of the Corporation is $19,453 less than the recorded investment of the Government. Accordingly, unrecorded financial interest is being reduced by this deficiency. "Borrowings from other than Government" include $94,790 which is guaranteed by the Government.

Details of Government of Canada Financial Interest in Crown Corporations

Table 8.5 presents balances which appear in Table 8.4 "Government of Canada Financial Interest in Crown Corporations". "Assets" are segregated between "Financial assets" and "Non-financial assets". "Financial assets" comprise cash, short-term investments and accounts receivable; "Non-financial assets" include inventories, prepaid expenses, deferred charges, intangible assets, and fixed assets net of accumulated depreciation.

This table also presents changes in the unrecorded financial interest for the year ended March 31, 1986, by displaying the opening balance, income and expenses and resulting net income (loss), other adjustments and the closing balance for each Crown corporation.

Income and expenses of Crown corporations are shown net of transactions with the Government and other Crown corporations and are those of the previous twelve months. This results in the amount of net income (loss) received from outside sources.

Other adjustments include the net effect, from year to year, of the timing differences which make up the balance of unrecorded financial interest. These items relate to asset and liability accounts recorded by the corporations but not recorded in the accounts of Canada.

The revenues and expenses of Crown corporations which relate to the Government and other Crown corporations complete the other adjustments category.

The accompanying notes to Table 8.4 are an integral part of this table.

Consolidation of Crown Corporations with Government

Note 5 to the Audited Financial Statements, in Section 2 of this volume, presents a summarized consolidated statement of assets and liabilities together with gross revenue and expenditure.

In accordance with the accounting policy stated in Note 1(i) to the Audited Financial Statements, the assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures reported in the separate financial statements of Crown corporations are not consolidated in the Government's financial statements. As a consequence, revenues and expenditures reported in the Government's statements include, respectively, amounts received from and paid to these corporations, but exclude corporate revenues and expenditures resulting from transactions with parties other than the Government. Similarly, assets and liabilities reported in the Government's statements include, respectively, amounts owing from and payable to these corporations, but exclude corporate assets and liabilities resulting from transactions with parties other than the Government.

However, the Government provides consolidated information which entails the elimination of transactions between the Government and Crown corporations and between Crown corporations themselves.

Before balances and transactions between the Government and Crown corporations and between Crown corporations themselves can be eliminated, Crown corporations' accounts must be adjusted to the Government's modified cash basis of accounting. In order to arrive at Crown corporation balances and transactions on the Government's modified cash basis of accounting, adjustments must be made for differences in accounting policies. The differences include accounts receivable, fixed assets, inventories, prepaid expenses, deferred revenues and credits, and other items not recorded on the Government's Statement of Assets and Liabilities. Similarly, revenue must be accounted for strictly on the cash basis and items such as depreciation, gain or loss on disposal of fixed assets including acquisitions and proceeds, are also reversed to revenue or expenditure. In addition, revenues and expenses of Crown corporations related to the Government and other Crown corporations which had been previously excluded for financial interest purposes are now included for consolidation purposes in order to be eliminated.

All such amounts resulting from accounting policy differences and additions are aggregated and deducted from the total financial interest figures shown on Tables 8.4 and 8.5 and are described as "Conversion to the Government's modified cash basis of accounting for consolidation purposes". Government balances and transactions are then added. They are followed by eliminations of reciprocal assets, liabilities, revenues and expenditures between the Government and Crown corporations and Crown corporations themselves to arrive at consolidated totals.

Financial Assistance under Budgetary Appropriations to Crown Corporations

Table 8.7 summarizes financial assistance under budgetary appropriations for both agent and non-agent Crown corporations. It should be read in conjunction with Table 8.4. The purpose for which payments have been made under budgetary appropriations is segregated between: (a) amounts to cover operating expenses and (b) amounts for capital expenditures.

All amounts reported represent charges to appropriations or authorities approved by Parliament.

Federal-provincial employment loans program

Loans have been made, to provinces, provincial agencies and municipalities, to assist in the creation of employment.

The loans bear interest at rates from 6.5% to 7.41% per annum, and are repayable either in annual instalments over 10 to 20 years, or at maturity, with final repayments between April 1, 1988 and November 30, 1994.

Federal-provincial fiscal arrangements

These amounts represent overpayments in respect of provincial equalization entitlements under the Constitution Acts 1867-1982, the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Arrangements and Federal Post-Secondary Education and Health Contributions Act, 1977, and other statutory authority. These overpayments are non-interest bearing and are recovered in the subsequent year.

Municipal Development and Loan Board

Loans have been made, to provinces and municipalities, to augment or accelerate municipal capital works programs.

Similar assistance has been provided to developing countries by way of subscriptions to the capital of the International Development Association in the amount of $2,231 million, and loans to other international financial institutions in the amount of $1,361 million. These amounts are reported later in this section under the heading "International Organizations".

Development of export trade

Pursuant to Section 31 of the Export Development Act, the Governor in Council may authorize the Corporation to make loans to foreign customers where the liability is for a term, or in an amount in excess of that normally assumed by the Corporation. Such loans are financed directly by payments out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund and are administered by the Corporation on behalf of the Government of Canada.

During the year, receipts and other credits included loan and guarantee repayments of $25,289,701, while payments and other charges included loans and guarantees of $17,387,877 and a valuation adjustment of $5,976,377 in respect of loans totalling $176,976,905 US. Interest of $29.6 million was received and credited to Non-tax revenue—Return on investments.

The loans bear interest at rates from 3.25% to 10.5% per annum, and are repayable over 6 to 22 years, with final instalments between April 1, 1986 and March 25, 2008.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization—Damage claims recoverable

Article VIII of the NATO Status of Forces Agreement signed April 4, 1949, as amended, deals with claims for damages to third parties arising from accidents in which a member of a visiting force is involved. This account is charged with the amount recoverable from other states, for claims for damages which took place in Canada, and is credited with recoveries.

The advances are non-interest bearing and have no specific repayment terms.

INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

This group records Canada's subscriptions to the capital of the African Development Bank, the Asian Development Bank, the Caribbean Development Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (i.e. World Bank), the International Development Association and the International Finance Corporation. It also includes loans and advances to other international organizations.

Capital subscriptions are made in part by the issuance of non-interest bearing, non-negotiable demand notes. The amounts advanced or loaned vary according to the needs of the organizations concerned, and the terms of the agreements.

The net position of the Government vis-à-vis the international organizations has been obtained by deducting from subscriptions, loans and advances, the non-interest bearing notes issued by Canada to these organizations. These notes, payable on demand, represent that portion of the investment by Canada in these organizations which has not yet been encashed by them. These notes are encashed subject to the financial requirements of these organizations.

Table 8.12 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for the subscriptions, loans and advances to international organizations.

VETERANS' LAND ACT FUND ADVANCES

Advances have been made, under Parts I and III of the Veterans' Land Act, for the acquisition of land, permanent improvements, removal of encumbrances, purchase of stock and equipment, and protection of security and, under Part II of the Act, for the purchase, subdivision and development of land, and for progress payments to veterans during construction and completion of unfinished houses, after termination of construction contracts, etc. On completion of the construction contract for each house, Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation will place or arrange to have placed, a mortgage on the property and will reimburse the Fund the full cost of that property. The total amount authorized to be outstanding at any time is $605,000,000.

A provision equal to 1/10 of the benefits to veterans was established each year up to and including 1978-79. Since that time, a forecast of requirements has been performed each year, and provisions are established as necessary. These provisions are charged to budgetary expenditure and credited to the allowance for conditional benefits account. The allowance for conditional benefits account represents the accumulated net provisions for benefits to veterans in the form of forgiveness of loans authorized by the Veterans' Land Act. These benefits come into effect only after certain conditions are fulfilled by the veterans. At the end of 10 years, the conditions having been met, the accumulated provision is charged to the allowance for conditional benefits account, and credited to the veteran's loan account.

Table 8.13 summarizes the balances and transactions for advances to the Veterans' Land Act Fund.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENT

Recorded Uncollected Interest

In accordance with the Government's stated accounting policies, interest due but not received is not reported as revenue. In certain cases, this uncollected interest is recorded by being added to the applicable loan and advance account, and credited to an uncollected interest account. Since the Government's policy is to report revenue only as received, the balance of the uncollected interest account is deducted from the loan and advance account, to present it on a net basis.

Table 8.16 reports the balances and transactions for the year in respect of the recorded uncollected interest.

SPECIFIED PURPOSE ACCOUNTS

Specified purpose accounts represent the recorded value of the financial obligations of the Government of Canada in its role as administrator of certain public moneys received or collected for specified purposes, under or pursuant to the legislation, trusts, treaties, undertakings or contracts. These public moneys may be paid out only for the purposes specified in or pursuant to the legislation, trusts, treaties, undertakings or contracts.

Because of the dedicated purposes of these moneys, specific accounts are required to be maintained to provide an accounting mechanism to ensure that the moneys are used only for the purposes for which they were received or collected. Legislation relating to some accounts permits investments to be made and, in certain cases, the balances of the accounts earn interest.

This section gives details of specified purpose accounts on which summary information was given in Sections 1 and 2 of this volume.

Some tables in this section present the continuity of accounts, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as receipts and other credits, and payments and other charges. In addition, the term "account(s) without current transactions" has been included in some tables, to show the net result of transactions in accounts which were closed out in the previous year.

The financial statements of the Canada Pension Plan Account and the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund, the Government Annuities Account and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (Dependants) Pension Fund, together with the Auditor General's reports thereon, are presented at the end of this section.

This reclassification was applied retroactively and the previous year's deficit and accumulated deficit have been restated for consistency. Additional information is provided in Section 7 of this volume and in the notes to the audited financial statements (Section 2 of this volume).

Canada Pension Plan Account

The Canada Pension Plan is a compulsory contributory social insurance plan which enables members of the labour force to acquire and retain protection for themselves and their families against loss of income due to retirement, disability or death. Established in 1965, the Plan applies in all parts of Canada, except the Province of Quebec which has a comparable plan.

Under existing arrangements, all benefits and costs incurred in the administration of the program are financed from contributions made by employees, employers and self-employed persons, and the interest earned from the investment of funds.

The Government's financial obligation, as administrator of the Canada Pension Plan, is limited to the balance in the Account.

Table 9.2 presents a summary of the balances and transactions in the Canada Pension Plan Account less investment in securities of the provinces held by the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund.

Receipts and other credits include:

(a) contributions of: (i) 1.8% of earnings by employees earning over $2,300 for the 1985 calendar year and $2,500 for the 1986 calendar year, with matching contributions by employers, subject to maximum payments of $379.80 for the 1985 calendar year and $419.40 for the 1986 calendar year and (ii) 3.6% of earnings of self-employed persons over $2,300 for the 1985 calendar year and $2,500 for the 1986 calendar year, subject to maximum payments of $759.60 for the 1985 calendar year and $838.80 for the 1986 calendar year; and,

(b) interest received from securities of the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund, and from the average daily operating balance.

Receipts and other credits for provincial government securities held by the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund represent the redemption of provincial government securities which commenced in March 1986.

Payments and other charges include:

(a) benefits paid under the Canada Pension Plan as retirement pensions, survivors' benefits paid to widows, widowers and orphans, or as lump sum death benefits, and disability pensions and benefits to children of disabled contributors;

(b) benefits paid and recovered from the Canada Pension Plan, in accordance with an agreement with a province providing a comprehensive pension plan;

(c) payments that are required to be charged to the Canada Pension Plan Account, in accordance with reciprocal agreements with other countries; and,

(d) the costs of administration of the Plan.

When the operating balance exceeds the estimated amount required to meet all payments in the following three-month period, the excess is available for the purchase of securities of the provinces and Canada.

Provinces are advised monthly of the amount of excess moneys in the Canada Pension Plan Account that is available for the purchase of provincial securities. The amount available to each province is the proportion that contributions made to the Plan during the preceding ten years in respect of employment in the province, bears to total contributions. Contributions received in respect of employment in the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and from certain other employees outside Canada, are invested in the special non-marketable bonds of the Government of Canada.

Certain federal employees, such as members of the Canadian Armed Forces, who are resident in the Province of Quebec, contribute to the Canada Pension Plan. The securities of Quebec which are purchased by the Plan relate to the contributions of these employees.

On the Statement of Assets and Liabilities of the Government of Canada, the investment in securities issued by provinces, as charged to the Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund, is deducted from the Canada Pension Plan Account.

Superannuation Accounts

The Government provides pensions to retired employees or their dependants through pension schemes authorized by the Public Service Superannuation Act, the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Act. These pensions are indexed to the cost of living under authority of the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act. The Government's liabilities in its role as administrator of these pension plans in respect of its employees and certain other contributors, are recorded in the relevant superannuation accounts.

Legislation for basic pensions provides for employee contributions (6½% of salary), employer contributions (prior year's employee contributions for members of the Public Service, and approximately 1.8 and 2.0 times current year's employee contributions for members of the Canadian Forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police respectively), allocation of interest (average market yield of 20 year Canada bonds weighted by the quarterly excess of receipts over disbursements in the three accounts each quarter over 20 years), and actuarial valuation deficiencies. Legislation for indexing basic pensions does not require actuarial valuations but does provide for additional employee contributions (1% of salary), matching employer contributions and allocation of interest (current rate of 5 year Canada bonds).

Receipts and other credits for the superannuation accounts consist of contributions from personnel, related contributions from the Government and participating Public Service corporations, transfers from other pension funds, other Government contributions related to actuarial liability adjustments (not applicable to the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account), and interest. Payments and other charges for the superannuation accounts consist of payments of pensions, minimum benefits, cash termination allowances (lump sum payments to employees suffering a disability), refunds of contributions and transfers to other plans.

The Public Pensions Reporting Act, as passed by the House of Commons on February 10, 1986, requires that actuarial reviews be conducted at a date not later than four years after the last review date and, thereafter, at dates not more than three years apart. As specified in that Act, the last review dates are deemed to be December 31, 1983 for the Public Service Superannuation Account, December 31, 1983 for the Canadian Forces Superannuation Account, and December 31, 1985 for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Account. In accordance with the legislation governing the three superannuation plans, the Minister of Finance has the authority to direct that any actuarial deficiency found will be credited to the appropriate account, charged to unamortized portion of actuarial deficiencies, and amortized to expenditure in five equal annual instalments commencing in the year in which the actuarial report is laid before Parliament. In addition, the cost of added liabilities, created by the authorization of salary increases each year, is credited to the superannuation accounts, charged to unamortized portion of actuarial deficiencies, and amortized to expenditure over a period of five years commencing in the year in which the increases are authorized.

Since the quarter ending September 30, 1969, the regulations, made pursuant to each of the superannuation acts, have provided for the calculation of interest at a rate related to the Canada Pension Plan interest rate. The acts further provide that the amount by which the calculated interest rate (currently about 11% per annum) exceeds the amount of interest calculated at the rate used in the latest actuarial report (currently 6.5% per annum for the Public Service, Canadian Forces and Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Accounts), may be used to reduce the amortization of actuarial deficiency adjustments charged to budgetary expenditure. Any of these interest earnings not needed to reduce amortization charges are credited to the respective Accounts.

Table 9.4 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for the superannuation accounts including the unamortized portion of actuarial deficiencies. Table 9.5 presents an analysis of actuarial deficiency adjustments.

Table 9.6 presents a summary of transactions in superannuation accounts that resulted in charges to budgetary expenditure. In 1985-86, $5,734 million was charged to budgetary expenditure on account of superannuation plans. This was composed of Government contributions, $785 million; increased superannuation benefits paid during the year due to indexation in excess of the superannuates' share of contributions to the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account, $735 million; and, interest, $4,214 million ($3,807 million credited to the superannuation accounts and $407 million of interest earnings in excess of 6.5% on the main superannuation accounts which was used to reduce the amortization of actuarial deficiency adjustments).

Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account

This account was established by the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Act, to provide for the payment of increased pension benefits resulting from indexation. Actuarial valuation of the Account is not required by the legislation.

The Chief Actuary of the Department of Insurance has estimated that, after allowing for surpluses (there were no deficits) in the three basic accounts, the actuarial present value of unfunded supplementary retirement benefits, including provision for future indexation, in respect of benefits earned as at March 31, 1986, payable to active or retired contributors or their dependants pursuant to the Public Service, Canadian Forces and Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Acts, was $4 billion, or $4.1 billion if the Royal Canadian Mounted Police which has no net unfunded supplementary retirement benefits is excluded. This amount is substantially less than the $15.5 billion reported as at March 31, 1985 primarily because the estimate is based on dynamic economic assumptions which make substantial allowance for the relatively high interest rates that will be credited to the accounts at least for a number of years (the interest rate was assumed to decrease from a level of 10.2% in 1986 to 6% for 2006 and subsequent years) and make allowance for what are currently considered to be reasonably realistic price and salary increases. The other assumptions are as described in the last tabled actuarial reports on the three superannuation accounts. It was further estimated that on the basis of the ultimate economic assumptions on which those reports are based, including an assumed interest rate of 6.5%, the actuarial present value of unfunded supplementary benefits as at March 31, 1986, after allowing for surpluses (there were no deficits) in the three basic accounts, would have been $19.8 billion. It should be noted that for purposes of the foregoing calculations the Public Service Superannuation Account was assumed to include the matching Government credit due but not paid as at March 31, 1986 of $400.2 million.

Increased superannuation benefits paid during the year due to indexation amounted to $762 million ($700 million in 1984-85), of which $735 million ($676 million in 1984-85) represents benefits to superannuates in excess of their share of contributions to the account which has been charged to budgetary expenditure. The payments charged to budgetary expenditure on behalf of contributors amounted to $453 million ($421 million in 1984-85) for the Public Service Superannuation Account of which it is estimated that $36 million ($34 million in 1984-85) pertains to former employees of Public Service corporations, $262 million ($236 million in 1984-85) for the Canadian Forces Superannuation Account, and $20 million ($19 million in 1984-85) for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Superannuation Account. An amount of $27 million ($24 million in 1984-85) was charged to the Supplementary Retirement Benefits Account.

Government Annuities Account

This account was established by the Government Annuities Act, and modified by the Government Annuities Improvement Act, which discontinued sales of annuities in 1975. The account is valued on an actuarial basis each year, with the deficit or surplus charged or credited to the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

The purpose of the Government Annuities Act was to assist Canadians to provide for their later years, by the purchase of Government annuities. The Government Annuities Improvement Act increased the rate of return and flexibility of Government annuity contracts.

Receipts and other credits consist of premiums received, funds reclaimed from the Consolidated Revenue Fund for previously unlocated annuitants, earned interest and items transferred from previous years' revenue to cover the actuarial deficit. Payments and other charges represent matured annuities, the commuted value of death benefits, premium refunds and withdrawals, and actuarial surpluses and unclaimed items transferred to non-tax revenue. The amounts of unclaimed annuities, related to annuitants who cannot be located, are transferred to non-tax revenue.

Deposit and Trust Accounts

Deposit and trust accounts is a group of liabilities representing the Government's financial obligations in its role as administrator of certain moneys that it has received or collected for specified purposes and that it will pay out accordingly. To the extent that the funds received are represented by securities, these are deducted from the corresponding accounts to show the Government's net liability.

Table 9.11 presents a summary of the balances and transactions in deposit and trust accounts.

1. Plan description and authority

The Canada Pension Plan (the Plan) is a compulsory and contributory social insurance plan which enables members of the labour force to acquire and retain protection for themselves and their families against loss of income due to retirement, disability or death. The Plan applies in all parts of Canada, except for the Province of Quebec which has a parallel plan.

Under existing arrangements, all benefits and all costs incurred in the administration of the Plan are financed by the contributions made by employees, employers and self-employed persons and the interest earned from the investment of funds.

The Canada Pension Plan Account (the Account) was established in the accounts of Canada by Section 110.(1) of the Canada Pension Plan, a 1965 Act of Parliament, to record the contributions, interest, benefits and expenses of the Plan.

The Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund (the Fund) was established in the accounts of Canada by Section 111.(1) of the Plan to record the investment in securities of the provinces and Canada.

2. Accounting policies

Canada Pension Plan Account

The amounts credited and charged to the Account are in accordance with Sections 110.(2) and 110.(3) of the Plan, respectively. Contributions, interest and benefits are recorded on a cash basis. Contributions are received from Revenue Canada—Taxation based on estimates of collections for the current year and adjustments to the estimates of prior years. Expenses are recorded on an accrual basis. The balance in the Account represents the accumulated excess of contributions and interest over benefits and expenses to date.

Canada Pension Plan Investment Fund

The amounts charged and credited to the Fund are in accordance with Section 111.(2) of the Plan. All securities held are carried at cost, are non-negotiable and have a term of 20 years or such lesser period as may be determined by the Minister of Finance on the recommendation of the Chief Actuary of the Department of Insurance.

	3,161,581	2,888,316

4. Expenses

Expenses of the Account represent the costs of administration charged by six federal government departments: Revenue Canada—Taxation (collection of contributions); Health and Welfare (administration); Supply and Services (cheque issue and computer services); Public Works (accommodation); Employment and Immigration (assignment of social insurance numbers and maintenance of central index); and Insurance (actuarial services).

5. Investment in securities

Operating balances on deposit with the Receiver General in excess of estimated cash requirements for the following three-month period are available for purchases of securities of the provinces and Canada. The monies available for securities purchases are allocated to the provinces based on the proportion of contributions credited to the Account during the preceding 10 years in respect of employment in a given province to the total contributions in those years. The portion attributed to employment in the Yukon Territory, the Northwest Territories and certain other employees outside Canada are invested in securities of Canada.

The securities of Quebec relate to the contributions of certain federal employees, such as members of the Canadian Armed Forces, who are residents in the Province of Quebec.

6. Financing of the Plan

When the Plan was introduced, the combined employer-employee contribution rate was set at 3.6% of the contributory earnings with the understanding that this would be sufficient to meet the cost of benefits and administration for a certain period of time but not indefinitely. In the initial years, a fund would be built up from which resources would be used to purchase securities of the provinces and, to a much lesser extent, securities of Canada as described in Note 5. However, since inception of the Plan, it has been recognized that the 3.6% contribution rate would need to be raised.

The Plan is not designed to be fully funded, but if it were, the Chief Actuary of the Department of Insurance estimates that an additional $231 billion would need to be invested at December 31, 1985 to pay future benefits of all contributors and pensioners in the Plan at that time. The estimate is based on ultimate economic assumptions and all other assumptions used in the actuarial report tabled in the House of Commons on June 5, 1984.

Under existing legislation, any proposed enactment to alter the general level of benefits or the rate of contributions requires agreement by at least two-thirds of the 10 provinces having an aggregate of not less than two-thirds of the population.

Bill C-116, which received Royal Assent on June 27, 1986 with an expected proclamation date of January 1, 1987, establishes a long-term financing philosophy for the Plan and sets out provisions for the timing, rate of increase of the contribution rates and amendments thereto which will be made by regulation.

The Bill contains a 25 year schedule of contribution rates providing for an increase from the 1986 rate of 3.6% progressively by 0.2 percentage points each year until 1991 and by 0.15 percentage points thereafter until 2011 when it will reach 7.6%. However, it stipulates that every five years the Minister of Finance and ministers of the Crown from the included provinces shall review the contribution rates set out in the schedule and make recommendations as to whether those rates should be changed and as to whether the schedule should be amended to include contribution rates for an additional five years. If, for any reason, the schedule is not amended for the additional five years the Minister of Finance shall, by regulation, amend the schedule to include the contribution rates set out in the most recent report prepared by the Chief Actuary. By the year 2011, it is expected that the Plan's Account will be equivalent to approximately two year's expenditure of the Plan.

It is expected that the Chief Actuary's Report No 10 containing his examination of the financial impact of the proposed legislative changes will be tabled in Parliament in October of this year.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
MARCH 31, 1986

1. Authority and purpose

The Government Annuities Account was established in 1908 by the Government Annuities Act, R.S.C. c. G-6, (the "Act"), and modified by the Government Annuities Improvement Act, S.C. 1974-75-76, c. 83, (the "Improvement Act").

The purpose of the Act was to assist individuals and groups of Canadians to provide for their later years by purchasing Government annuities. The Improvement Act increased the rate of return on Government annuity contracts to a rate of seven percent, increased their flexibility and discontinued future sales.

The Account is administered by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission and operates through the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

2. Significant accounting policies

(a) Basis of accounting

The accounts of the Government Annuities Account are maintained on an accrual basis.

(b) Actuarial reserves

Actuarial reserves comprise: (i) in respect of unmatured annuities, accumulated premiums and accrued interest, and (ii) in respect of matured annuities, the present value of such annuities actuarially determined on the basis of such rate or rates of interest and mortality tables as is prescribed.

(c) Actuarial surplus due to Canada

If at the end of any fiscal year the recorded amount of actuarial reserves exceeds or is less than the calculated amount of actuarial reserves, the difference results in an actuarial surplus or deficit which is remitted to or recovered from the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

(d) Interest from Canada

Interest from Canada is calculated on actuarial reserves as prescribed by the Improvement Act.

(e) Unclaimed annuities

Unclaimed annuities represent amounts transferred to the Consolidated Revenue Fund in respect of annuities that could not be paid because the annuitants could not be located.

(f) Services provided without charge

Administrative services are provided to the Account by the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission and by other Government departments without charge.

Government Annuities Account—Concluded

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
MARCH 31, 1986—Concluded

3. Actuarial reserves

The method utilized to calculate the actuarial reserves of $1,056,855 (1985—$1,089,629) was in accordance with subsection 15(1) of the Government Annuities Improvement Act, S.C. 1974-75-76, c. 83 and the Regulations pertaining thereto.

The Government Annuities Regulations provide that the Mortality Tables to be used in the preparation of tables for determining the values of annuities shall be the Annuity Table for 1949 (without projection) for males and females and modified by Projection Scale C.

Mortality statistics in the last decade have shown that life expectancy has increased at a faster rate than that provided by Projection Scale C. Should this trend continue at the same rate in the future, the 1949 Mortality table adjusted by Projection Scale C may need to be modified and could result in a potential additional liability that would impact future actuarial reserves. During 1985-86, the Canada Employment and Immigration Commission completed a study on mortality in the last five years and the results have demonstrated that the life expectancy appears to stabilize itself to the level provided in Projection Scale C. The Commission will in effect continue such studies on an annual basis.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police (Dependants) Pension Fund

AUDITOR'S REPORT

TO THE SOLICITOR GENERAL OF CANADA

I have examined the statement of receipts and disbursements and fund balance of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (Dependants) Pension Fund for the year ended March 31, 1986. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, this financial statement presents fairly the receipts and disbursements of the Fund and its balance for the year ended March 31, 1986 in accordance with the basis of accounting set out in Note 2 to the financial statement applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENT MARCH 31, 1986

1. Authority and operations

   The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (Dependants) Pension Fund was established in 1934 by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Pension Continuation Act. The Act provides for members of the Force, other than commissioned officers, appointed before March 1, 1949, to purchase certain survivorship benefits for their dependants by payment of specified contributions. The Fund is credited with these contributions together with interest computed quarterly on the balance to the credit of the Fund at the end of the preceding quarter, and charged with contributions withdrawn and pensions. All transactions of the Fund are made through the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

   Section 56 of the Act directs the Minister of Finance to have an actuarial valuation of the Fund made at least once every 5 years. If the actuarial valuation discloses a surplus, the Governor in Council may, by order, increase pensions. If there is an actuarial deficiency, the Governor in Council may direct that there be credited to the Fund, out of any unappropriated moneys in the Consolidated Revenue Fund, such amount as may be required to re-establish solvency of the Fund.

2. Basis of accounting

   All transactions of the Fund are accounted for on a cash basis.

3. Supplementary information

   The most recent actuarial valuation was made as at March 31, 1984. The valuation disclosed an actuarial surplus of $2,576,000 of which $1,176,000 was allocated to increased pensions, retroactive to January 1, 1984 and $532,000, retroactive to January 1, 1985.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE ACCOUNTS

Foreign exchange accounts represent financial claims and obligations of the Government of Canada which are identified with Canada's foreign exchange operations. Financial claims and obligations denominated in foreign currencies are reported at Canadian dollar equivalents at March 31. Net gains resulting from the translation of the net assets denominated in foreign currencies, to Canadian dollar equivalents as at March 31, are credited to revenue as premium and discount on exchange, and net losses are charged to budgetary expenditure of the Department of Finance.

Table 11.1 presents the continuity of each foreign exchange account, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as receipts and other credits, and payments and other charges. It should be noted, however, that this table excludes unmatured debt payable in foreign currencies, amounting to $13,785 million as at March 31, 1986 ($9,057 million as at March 31, 1985); details relating to these obligations are presented in Section 12 of this volume.

International Reserves Held in the Exchange Fund Account

This account records the moneys advanced from the Government of Canada to the Exchange Fund Account, in Canadian and other currencies, for the purchase of gold, foreign currencies and securities, and Special Drawing Rights (SDRs).

The Exchange Fund Account is operated under the provisions of the Currency Act. In accordance with this Act, audited financial statements for the Exchange Fund Account are prepared for each calendar year. These financial statements as at December 31, 1985, together with the Auditor General's report thereon, are found at the end of this section.

Commencing with the 1985-86 fiscal year, foreign exchange reserves, rather than the outstanding advances to acquire such reserves, are reported on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. Accordingly, all investment income or losses and valuation gains or losses are recognized in the accounts of Canada as either revenue or expenditure of the current year rather than being taken into revenue or expenditure in three equal portions over the current and two succeeding years.

Table 11.2 shows foreign exchange reserves held by and advances to the Exchange Fund Account as at March 31, 1986. Gold held by the Account is valued at 35 SDRs per fine ounce ($55.61 Cdn as at March 31, 1986 and $47.31 Cdn as at March 31, 1985).

In 1985-86, payments and other charges consisted of advances to the Exchange Fund Account in the amount of $25,587 million, and a valuation adjustment of $1,056 million. Receipts and other credits consisted of repayments of advances of $26,839 million, and an adjustment of $556 million due to recognition of international reserves held in the Exchange Fund Account.

International Monetary Fund—Subscriptions

This account records the value of Canada's quota (i.e. subscription assigned) in the capital of the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

The amount by which the sum of Canada's subscriptions and loans to the IMF, under special facilities, exceeds the IMF's holdings of Canadian dollars represents the amount of foreign exchange which Canada is entitled to draw from the IMF on demand, for balance of payments purposes. The subscription is expressed in terms of the SDR, a unit of account defined in terms of a "basket" of five major currencies.

Canada has accumulated its subscriptions through settlements to the IMF in Canadian dollars, gold and SDRs. Annual maintenance of value payments are made to, or received from, the IMF when the Canadian dollar depreciates or appreciates against the SDR, in order to maintain the SDR-value of the IMF's holdings of Canadian dollars. In 1985-86, receipts and other credits consisted of a valuation adjustment of $2 million, while payments and other charges consisted of a maintenance of value adjustment of $578 million and a valuation adjustment of $109 million.

International Monetary Fund—Notes Payable

This account records non-marketable, non-interest bearing notes issued by the Government of Canada to the IMF. These notes are payable on demand and are subject to redemption or re-issue, depending on the needs of the IMF for Canadian currency.

Canadian dollar holdings of the IMF include these notes and a small working balance (initially equal to one-quarter of one percent of Canada's subscription) held on deposit at the Bank of Canada. In 1985-86, notes payable to the IMF increased by $637 million.

Special Drawing Rights Allocations

This account records the value of SDRs allocated to Canada by the IMF. The Special Drawing Right is an international currency created by the IMF, and allocated to countries participating in its Special Drawing Rights Department. It represents a liability of Canada, as circumstances could arise whereby Canada could be called upon to repay these allocations, in part or in total.

As an asset, SDRs represent rights to purchase currencies of other countries participating in the IMF's Special Drawing Rights Department, as well as to make payments to the IMF itself. All SDRs allocated to Canada by the IMF have either been used to settle subscriptions in the IMF, or have been advanced to the Exchange Fund Account.

There was no allocation of SDRs by the IMF to Canada during the year. In 1985-86, payments and other charges consisted of a valuation adjustment of $182 million.

SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENT

Exchange Fund Account

AUDITOR'S REPORT

THE HONOURABLE MICHAEL WILSON, P.C., M.P.
MINISTER OF FINANCE

I have made an examination with respect to reporting on the Exchange Fund Account's compliance with the accounting and financial reporting requirements of subsections 16.(1) and 16.(2) of the Currency Act, R.S., c. C-39, as amended, for the year ended December 31, 1985. My examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as I considered necessary in the circumstances.

In my opinion, the Exchange Fund Account for the year ended December 31, 1985 was in compliance with the accounting and financial reporting requirements of subsections 16.(1) and 16.(2) of the Currency Act, R.S., c. C-39, as amended, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Pursuant to paragraph 16.(1) (c) of the Currency Act (the Act), you have determined that gold shall be recorded at 35 Special Drawing Rights per fine ounce, as outlined in Note 6 to the financial statements. The Act does not prescribe the method of translation to be used to express gold in Canadian dollars in the financial statements. In the absence of specific direction in the Act, and in keeping with the method of translation prescribed in the Act for certain other assets denominated in foreign currencies, the value of gold has been translated at the current rate of exchange. This valuation method, which does not represent either the historical cost or the current market value of the gold holdings, is subject to fluctuations corresponding to changes in the exchange rate between Special Drawing Rights and the Canadian dollar. As a result, the net valuation losses of $635.5 million for the year ended December 31, 1985 included an unrealized valuation gain on gold holdings of $169 million attributable to the change in the value of Special Drawing Rights from the previous year end. For the year ended December 31, 1984, the net valuation gains included an unrealized loss on gold holdings of $5 million.

DECEMBER 31, 1985

1. Authority and objective

The Account is governed by Part II of the Currency Act, R.S., c.C-39, as amended (the Act). The Account is in the name of the Minister of Finance and is administered by the Bank of Canada as fiscal agent. The Account is funded by advances from the Consolidated Revenue Fund (CRF) which are limited to Cdn $10 billion by Order in Council dated March 1, 1979 and are not subject to interest. The net income for the year due to the CRF is payable within three months after the end of the year.

The main objective of the Account is to aid in the control and protection of the external value of the Canadian dollar and the Minister acquires for the Account those assets which are deemed appropriate for this purpose in accordance with the Act.

2. Accounting policies

Valuation of assets

US dollar securities, Special Drawing Rights (SDRs) and International Monetary Fund (IMF) notes are adjusted for amortized premiums and discounts where applicable, and include accrued interest. Gold includes gold loans and accrued interest on gold loans. Under the Currency Act, the Minister of Finance determines the gold valuation policy of the Account (Note 6). Cash and short-term deposits include accrued interest where applicable.

Translation of foreign currencies and SDRs

Assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at the year-end exchange rates in the Canadian foreign exchange market. Assets and liabilities denominated in SDRs are first translated into US dollars at the year-end US dollar value of the SDR, as calculated by the IMF, and then into Canadian dollars. Investment income in foreign currencies is translated into Canadian dollars at the foreign exchange rates prevailing on the date the income is recorded. The assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies and SDRs have been translated into Canadian dollars at the following year-end exchange rates:

	1985	1984
US dollar	1.3983	1.3217
Japanese yen	0.006993	0.005248
Swiss franc	0.6803	0.5078
Special Drawing Right	1.53592	1.29554
Deutsche mark	0.5730	0.4187

Investment income

Investment income is recorded on an accrual basis and includes interest earned, amortization of premiums and discounts, and gains and losses on the sale of securities.

Valuation gains and losses

Valuation gains and losses include the increases and decreases in the value of assets and liabilities arising from the translation of foreign currencies and SDRs during the year and at year end. Valuation gains and losses also include gains or losses on transactions in foreign currencies, SDRs and gold, and on the liquidation of liabilities. In accordance with the provisions of the Act, valuation gains and losses for the year are taken into income in three equal portions over the current and two succeeding years.

Operating expenses

The Bank of Canada provides, without charge, the administrative, custodial and fiscal agency services to carry out the objectives of the Account.

These notes represent Canada's participation in the Supplementary Financing Facility established to assist members of the IMF with balance of payments needs. The notes were acquired in 1980, 1983 and 1984 and have original terms to maturity of five years. They are redeemable on demand if Canada represents that it has a balance of payments need and are transferable to other members.

6. Gold

	(in millions of US dollars)
Gold and gold loans	773.0	690.9

	773.1	690.9

Gold is recorded at 35 SDRs (US $38.44; 1984—US $34.31) per fine ounce. During the year, the market price of gold, as recorded at the London fixings, ranged from a low of US $284.25 (1984—US $303.25) per fine ounce to a high of US $340.90 (1984—US $406.85) and closed at US $327.00 (1984—US $309.00).

The Minister of Finance has authorized loans and/or sales, at market related prices, of part of the gold held by the Account, to the Royal Canadian Mint and others. At year end, the Account's gold holdings included gold loans of 1,174 thousand (1984—88 thousand) fine ounces.

7. Official international reserve assets

The Account is the principal repository of Canada's official international reserves. The remainder of Canada's international reserves are held by the Bank of Canada and the CRF and are not reflected in the statements of the Account.

8. Provision for valuation gains (losses) on uncompleted contracts

At year end, the Account had uncompleted foreign exchange transactions and swaps.

As the exchange rates on these uncompleted contracts differ from the year-end rates at which the Account's assets and liabilities are valued, additional valuation gains or losses will occur upon settlement. The provision for valuation gains (losses) on uncompleted contracts arises from the revaluation of such contracts using the year-end rates of exchange and represents the portion of future net gains or losses attributed to the current year.

Under the swap arrangements with the Bank of Canada, the Account sells US dollars to the Bank and agrees to repurchase these amounts at the same exchange rates at which they were sold. These contracts are undertaken to assist in the Bank's management of chartered banks' cash reserves. There were no outstanding swaps with the Bank of Canada at year end (1984—US $370 million; Cdn $488 million).

The proceeds of Canada's borrowings in foreign currency and the IMF allocations of SDRs have been advanced in foreign currency and SDRs from the CRF to the Account. The borrowings include foreign bond and note issues and bank loans, as well as borrowings under Standby Credit Arrangements with Canadian and foreign banks. Redemptions of such borrowings are made using the resources of the Account. Interest payable by Canada on borrowings in foreign currencies is charged directly to the CRF.

UNMATURED DEBT

Unmatured debt represents financial obligations resulting from certificates of indebtedness issued by the Government of Canada that have not yet become due.

The Government's holdings of its own securities have been deducted from unmatured debt, to report the amount of the Government's liabilities to outside parties.

Some tables in this section present the continuity of accounts, by showing the opening and closing balances, as well as issues and retirements. In addition, the term "account(s) without current transactions" has been included in some tables, to show the net result of transactions in accounts which were closed out in the previous year.

Marketable Bonds

Marketable bonds are interest-bearing certificates of indebtedness issued by the Government of Canada, and have the following characteristics:

—bought and sold on the open market;

—payable in Canadian or foreign currency;

—subject to call or redemption before maturity;

—fixed dates of maturity;

—interest payable either in coupon or registered form; and,

—face value guaranteed at maturity.

Registered marketable bonds are transferable by endorsement and delivery by one holder to another. Bearer marketable bonds need not be endorsed.

Table 12.2 presents a summary of the balances and transactions for marketable bonds. Since most of the marketable bonds are not subject to call or redemption before maturity, exceptions only are noted in the table.

The year-end balances of marketable bonds payable in foreign currencies were translated into Canadian dollars using the closing rates of exchange at March 31, 1986.

Statement of all Borrowing Transactions on behalf of Her Majesty

Table 12.10 presents the information required by Section 40 of the Financial Administration Act. The borrowing transactions included in this table are: borrowings by the Government for general purposes, and borrowings by agent Crown corporations which are reported as such on the Government's Statement of Assets and Liabilities, except where the Government is the lender. Borrowings by non-agent Crown corporations are not included because such borrowings are not on behalf of Her Majesty.

Cash in hands of collectors and in transit

This account records public moneys received by public officers prior to April 1, but not deposited to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada in the Bank of Canada, before that date.

Moneys received after March 31 but applicable to the current year

Public moneys received after March 31, but applicable to the year just ended, are recorded in this account.

This account includes refunds of old year expenditure received prior to the closing of the accounts, and receipts to be credited to asset, liability, and (in exceptional cases) revenue accounts, where the omission of the credits in the old year would tend to make the accounting incomplete or inconsistent.

Cash

The Government's cash account represents public moneys on deposit at March 31, to the credit of the Receiver General for Canada, with the Bank of Canada, chartered banks and other financial institutions.

The cash position of the Government is affected not only by budgetary transactions, but also by non-budgetary, foreign exchange and unmatured debt transactions, all of which must be taken into account when considering the full scope of the Government's financial operations.

Table 13.2 presents a summary of the balances and related transactions in current and special Receiver General deposits.

The year-end balances denominated in foreign currencies have been translated into Canadian dollar equivalents at year-end closing rates of exchange. Foreign currencies held include United Kingdom pounds sterling, United States dollars, Belgian, Swiss and French francs, West German marks, and Japanese yen.

Receiver General special deposits

These are balances in the hands of fiscal agents of the Government, for the purchase or redemption of Government securities, and for the payment of interest.

Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are tangible, durable items of value, including major additions or alterations thereto, from which benefits are expected to be derived during their useful lives.

The fixed assets of the Government, which include land, engineering structures and works (such as canals, harbours and roads), buildings, and machinery and equipment, are charged to budgetary expenditure at the time of acquisition or construction, in accordance with the accounting policies of the Government of Canada which are described in Note 1 to the audited financial statements (Section 2 of this volume). Their existence, however, is acknowledged on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities by reporting them at the nominal value of $1.

Accumulated Deficit

The accumulated deficit is the account recording the net sum of annual deficits and surpluses of the Government of Canada since Confederation, together with certain amounts charged or credited directly to this account. The accumulated deficit is also equal to the excess of recorded liabilities over net recorded assets.

A Statement of Accumulated Deficit is published in Section 2 of this volume.

A five year comparative statement of the accumulated deficit, in terms of total liabilities and net recorded assets, is presented as follows:

OTHER INFORMATION

Capital Leases

Table 13.6 provides details of commitments under capital lease arrangements which are summarized in Note 17 to the audited financial statements in Section 2 of this volume. A capital lease is a lease that, from the point of view of the Government, transfers substantially all the benefits and risks incident to ownership of the asset to the Government. Table 13.7 presents commitments under capital lease arrangements in order of maturity.

Contingent Liabilities

A contingent liability is a potential liability which may become an actual liability when one or more future events occur or fail to occur.

The Government of Canada as an accounting entity is defined as all the departments named in Schedule A of the Financial Administration Act; any division or branch of the Public Service of Canada, including a commission appointed under the Inquiries Act, designated by the Governor in Council as a department for purposes of the Financial Administration Act; the staffs of the Senate, the House of Commons, and the Library of Parliament; and, any corporation named in Schedule B of the Financial Administration Act. Corporations listed in Parts I and II of Schedule C of the Financial Administration Act, and those Crown corporations that are not subject to the Financial Administration Act, are excluded from this definition. Information regarding contingent liabilities of Crown corporations can be found in Table 8.9—"Contingent Liabilities of Crown Corporations", while details of their borrowings can be found in Table 8.4—"Government of Canada Financial Interest in Crown Corporations". Some Crown corporations also operate insurance programs. Information regarding these insurance programs can be found in Note 6 to the audited financial statements of the Government in Section 2 of this volume.

The contingent liabilities of the Government comprise explicit guarantees by the Government, which include borrowings by other than Crown corporations, both from agent Crown corporations and from other than agents. Such explicit guarantees consist of guarantee programs of the Government, explicit guarantees by the Government for loans, financial arrangements and other potential liabilities, insurance programs of the Government and other explicit guarantees. They also comprise potential losses arising from pending and threatened litigation relating to claims and assessments in respect of breach of contract, damages to persons and property, and like items. Pending and threatened litigation is reported in total in the following table. This table is also summarized in Note 4 to the audited financial statements of the Government in Section 2 of this volume.

[1] Represents the average percentage over the most recent 5 years of net claims to the average amount of outstanding guarantees as at March 31, 1986.

[2] Committed guarantees exist for the following loans to be made: to Indians for on-reserve housing, $43,452,876; for Indian economic development, $697,510. At the reporting date, no loans had been issued for these amounts.

[3] Letters of comfort have been issued by the Minister of Finance to the Bank of Canada with respect to funds advanced or guarantees provided by the Bank of Canada to the Bank for International Settlements (BIS). The letters pertain to BIS standby credit facilities in favour of the International Monetary Fund. The Government's potential liability and actual exposure at March 31, 1986 amounted to 180 million Special Drawing Rights ($205,400,000 US).

[4] The Act places limits on the maximum amount of guarantee for loans made by eligible lenders over different loan periods. The maximum amount of guarantee per lender is expressed in legislation as a percentage of aggregate loans made to qualified borrowers and varies depending upon the dollar value range of aggregate loans made by the lender. The authorized limits for given loan periods are included in the figure reported until all qualified loans made by all eligible lenders in the given periods are no longer outstanding, and are not adjusted for loan repayments nor payments made by the Government for guaranteed amounts in which default has occurred.

[5] Less than .1%.

[6] Includes $2,191,704 attributable to the Canadian Industrial Renewal Board.

[7] Authorized limit for loan guarantees for on-reserve housing totals $350,000,000 (shown above) for loans made by the Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation, the Farm Credit Corporation and other approved lenders.

[8] Amount denominated wholly or partially in a foreign currency and translated at the closing rate of exchange as at date of statement.

[9] Maislin Industries Ltd was placed in receivership on July 11, 1983 and was declared bankrupt on October 19, 1983. To date, the Government has made interim payments totalling $18,500,000 US to creditors under a guarantee in the amount of $27,000,000 US. It is anticipated that the Company's assets will be liquidated later in the year and that the Government will be called upon to make a payment of $7,000,000 US to settle remaining obligations to creditors at that time.

[10] There have been no claims under the Nuclear Liability Act since its inception in 1970. The Act covers 15 Canadian nuclear installations, 9 of which are active, as at March 31, 1986.

[11] The Fishing Vessel Insurance Plan is administered by the Government to insure fishermen against abnormal capital losses. A specified purpose account is credited with premiums, recoveries, and with advances to the account by the Government, such advances not to exceed $150,000 at any time. The account is debited with refunds of premiums and payments in settlement of third party vessel collision damage claims against fishermen, where the collision involves a vessel insured under the Plan. As at March 31, 1986, the insured value of vessels under the Plan amounted to $389,298,561; the balance of the account was $6,467,986 and outstanding claims against the account totalled $1,200,000.

[12] Includes $2.9 billion related to the administration of native statutory and treaty obligations by the Department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development. This amount represents plaintiffs' claims in 50 litigation cases. There are another 75 cases and settlements of Native Land claims currently under negotiation, for which amounts are not stated in the claims, and it is not possible to determine the amounts that may be ultimately payable.

INTRODUCTION TO THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

Nature of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is the report of the Government of Canada prepared each fiscal year by the Receiver General as required by Section 55 of the Financial Administration Act.

The report covers the fiscal year of the Government, which ends on March 31, and is prepared from data contained in the accounts of Canada and from more detailed records maintained in departments and agencies. The accounts of Canada is the centralized record of the Government's financial transactions maintained by the Receiver General in which the transactions of all departments and agencies are summarized. Each department and agency is responsible for agreeing its accounts to the control accounts of the Receiver General, and maintains detailed records of the transactions in those accounts.

The report covers the financial transactions of the Government during the year. In certain cases, parliamentary authority to undertake transactions was provided by legislation approved in earlier years.

Format of the Public Accounts

The Public Accounts is produced in three volumes. Volume I presents a summary and analysis of the financial transactions of the Government while Volume III contains an annual consolidated report on the businesses and activities of all parent Crown corporations together with a listing of all Crown corporations and other corporate interests of Canada.

Volume II is published in two parts. Part I presents the financial operations of the Government, segregated by ministry while Part II presents additional information and analyses.

Part I is designed to reflect as closely as possible the form and content of Part II of the Main Estimates. Most tables and statements in Part I display the source and disposition of spending authorities. The level of details provided for the source and disposition of authorities is explained below:

- Source of Authorities
  - Available from previous years
    Spending authorities allowed to be brought forward from the previous year. Includes only those authorities where there is a specified dollar limit on total spending, or on the accumulated outstanding balance of items where revenues and receipts are available for spending. Usually these items are either revolving funds or loans. These amounts are available for spending without further approval from Parliament.
  - Main and Supplementary Estimates
    Include:
    - spending authorities requested in Main and Supplementary Estimates and approved by Appropriation Acts;
    - forecasts included in Main and Supplementary Estimates of spending under authorities granted in various other statutes including Appropriation Acts of previous years.
  - Adjustments and transfers
    Include:
    - transfers from or to other ministries such as Treasury Board contingency votes or changes in ministry responsibility;
    - transfers within the ministry from one vote to another (under Parliamentary authority), or between activities, types of expenditures or transfer payments;
    - changes to statutory amounts due to adjustments of spending forecasts included in Main and Supplementary Estimates or due to cancellation or amendment to statutes;
    - reserved allotments to cover over-expenditures of previous year's authorities.
  - Total available for use
    Authorities available for spending during the current year (net of forecasted revenues and receipts available for spending).
- Disposition of Authorities
  - Used in the current year
    Amounts spent in the current year (net of actual revenues and receipts available for spending).
  - Lapsed (variance under)
    Unused spending autorities which cannot be carried forward to a subsequent year.
  - Overexpended (variance over)
    Excess of spending over authorities granted.
  - Available for use in subsequent years
    Unused spending autorities which have not lapsed and which are carried forward to a subsequent year.
  - Used in the previous year
    Amounts spent in the previous year (net of actual revenues and receipts available for spending).

The content of Part I is summarized as follows:

(a) Summary Tables (Section 1)

Section 1 includes the following tables which provide summaries of the financial operations contained in the ministerial sections:

Table 1 summarizes the source and disposition of budgetary authorities by ministry

Table 2 summarizes the source and disposition of non-budgetary authorities by ministry

Table 3 summarizes the source and disposition of budgetary and non-budgetary authorities by ministry and by type of authority (voted and statutory)

Table 4 summarizes expenditure by ministry and by standard object

Table 5 summarizes revenue by ministry and by main classification

Section 1 also includes, as appendices, the full wording of all authorities granted in current year Appropriation Acts, of all non-lapsing authorities granted in the current year by Statutes other than Appropriation Acts, and of all authorities available from previous years.

(b) Ministerial Sections (Sections 2 to 28)

There is one section for each ministry. The programs for the departments and agencies from which a Minister is responsible to Parliament are grouped together to provide a total ministry presentation. Each ministerial section provides a statement of program objectives and activity descriptions. Each ministerial section also includes, where applicable, a uniform set of statements to present each ministry's financial operations. These statements are:

- Ministry Summary
  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of each budgetary and non-budgetary authority granted by Parliament in Appropriation Acts and other statutes.

- Programs by Activity
  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each activity under each type of expenditure (operating, capital, transfer payments and non-budgetary).

- Transfer Payments
  This statement displays by program the source and disposition of authorities for each transfer payment (grant and contribution).

- Details of Amounts Credited to the Vote
  This statement displays by program the nature of revenues and receipts which increase the amounts which may be spent from appropriations having net voting authority.

- Revenue
  This statement displays by program the nature of revenue collected for each main classification of revenue.

The statements in the ministerial sections are designed so that the relevant totals and sub-totals may be traced directly to a preceeding statement and then to the Summary Tables in Section 1. In this way:

- data in the Transfer Payments statement can be traced to the Programs by Activity statement which can in turn be traced to the Ministry Summary (of source and disposition of authorities) statement. Data in the Ministry Summary statement can be traced to the Summary Tables (Tables 1, 2 and 3) in Section 1.
- data in the Details of Amounts Credited to the Vote statement can be traced to the Programs by Activity statement and also to Summary Table 4 in Section 1.
- data in the Revenue statement can be traced to Summary Table 5 in Section 1.

Department

Defence Services Program

Objective

To ensure the security of Canada and to contribute to the maintenance of world peace.

Activity Description

Maritime Forces
The element encompasses the creation and maintenance of general-purpose regular and reserve maritime forces designed primarily to fulfil the missions of defending, in conjunction with U.S. and NATO forces, the maritime approaches to North America and the sea areas vital to NATO; and conducting in conjunction with U.S. Forces, surveillance to detect, track and identify strategic submarine forces threatening North America. The forces raised for these purposes have the inherent capabilities necessary to fulfil the other missions assigned, namely: protecting Canadian territory, rights and interests against external maritime challenges; assisting other Government departments and agencies in enforcing Canadian laws and regulations in maritime areas under Canadian jurisdiction; contributing maritime forces to international arrangements to prevent or contain conflicts outside the NATO area; and contributing to national development.

Land Forces in Canada
This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of general-purpose regular and reserve land forces designed primarily to fulfil, concurrently, the two missions of defending, in conjunction with U.S. Forces, against hostile military lodgement in North America; and providing, in an emergency, additional land forces for the defence of Europe within the framework of agreed NATO commitments. The forces raised for these purposes have the inherent capabilities necessary to fulfil the other missions assigned, namely: promoting international stability by contributing to peacekeeping activities in co-operation with other members of the international community; supplementing and supporting the civilian authorities in maintaining surveillance and preserving control over and security within the national territory of Canada; assisting civilian authorities in the event of emergency or disaster; and contributing to national development.

Air Forces in Canada
This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of general-purpose regular and reserve air forces designed primarily to fulfil, concurrently, the two missions of defending, in conjunction with U.S. Forces against aerospace attack on North America; and providing in an emergency additional general-purpose air forces for the defence of Europe within the framework of agreed NATO commitments. It includes, as well, the provision of an air transport system to support military commitments in Canada and abroad, tactical helicopter forces to support the needs of the land forces in Canada, maritime air forces to support Canada's maritime forces, and search and rescue forces. The forces raised for these purposes have the inherent capabilities necessary to fulfil the other missions assigned, namely: supplementing and supporting the civilian authorities in maintaining surveillance and preserving control over the Canadian airspace, assisting civilian authorities in the event of emergency or disaster and contributing to national development.

Canadian Forces in Europe
This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of military forces in Europe in order to prevent or contain armed attack against the European NATO area. It involves the three missions of providing land forces, air forces and national command and support of all Canadian forces which would, in an emergency, serve in Europe.

Communication Services
This element encompasses the creation and maintenance of forces designed to provide information handling services in the form of strategic communications in support of the Canadian Forces and Emergency Government (EMGOV) tasks. In addition, communications research and high frequency direction-finding facilities are provided.

Personnel Support
This element encompasses the provision of services required for the personnel development (recruitment, individual training, education), personnel management (administration, career assignment, spiritual, morale, comfort support), and health services (medical, dental) as appropriate for military and civilian members of the department.

Materiel Support
This element encompasses the provision of supply, transportation, equipment engineering and maintenance, real property management, and research and development.

Policy Direction and Management Services
This element encompasses the formulation and recommendation of defence objectives and policy options and the development of clear authoritative expressions of government approved defence policy to provide overall direction for developmental planning in the department and the management of the Defence Services Program. Equally important, is the command and control function, within which the detailed operational, materiel, personnel and financial preparations are made for times of crisis or war. This function also embodies the exercise of command and control of the "day-to-day" operations of the Canadian Forces by the Chief of Defence Staff or delegated subordinate commanders. With respect to the more general management services, this element includes the development, and general direction of management information systems, consulting, audit, evaluation, financial and accounting services within the department, that are consistent with legislative and regulatory requirements and authority.
